Missile Agreement Approval Is Sought

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon met today with congressional leaders who, a White House spokesman said, expressed no misgivings over agreements Nixon reached with the Soviet Union.

On that basis, the spokesman said, congressional ratification of the nuclear arms limitation treaty is expected.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reporting that the Moscow summit laid the foundation for a new U.S.-Soviet relationship, President Nixon has quickly asked Congress for approval of the landmark superpower missile pact "to check the wasteful and dangerous spiral of nuclear arms."

Nixon's plea to a half-filled joint session of Congress Thursday night—where he hurried straightaway upon his return to Andrews Air Force Base—won wide praise but enough criticism to show the SALT accords will face some stiff debate.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a Democratic presidential contender, said Nixon had confessed to a growing Soviet momentum in missilery. Rep. John M. Ashbrook, a Republican presidential hopeful, said the strategic-arms agreements would allow the Soviets a big advantage.

But Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, the assistant Senate GOP leader, reflected what appeared to be more widespread, favorable reaction in saying:

"The President presented Congress with a challenge to build on a solid foundation he has prepared. Surely, the first order of business for Congress should be to indicate support by ratifying the accords reached at Moscow."

Nixon called congressional leaders to the White House today before heading for a Florida vacation. The SALT treaty on limiting defensive antiballistic missiles—ABMs—requires a two-thirds Senate vote, while the accompanying executive agreement curbing offensive missiles can pass with a majority in the Senate and House.

Only 48 of 100 senators and fewer than 200 of the 433 House members showed up to hear Nixon as the President, upon returning from his 13-day journey, transferred directly from his jetliner to a helicopter and hopped to Capitol Hill.

The heavy absenteeism in the House chamber resulted mainly from the fact that the President's address was hurriedly scheduled.

Most members did not know until afternoon Wednesday that Nixon had requested the joint session for Thursday night. They already had made plans for political meetings and other engagements back home and didn't want to miss them.

Seven states have congressional primary elections next week.

"The foundation has been laid for a new relationship between the two most powerful nations on earth," Nixon reported to the unusual joint session in his nationally broadcast, half-hour address.

"Now it is up to us—to all of us here in this chamber and to all of us across America—to join with other nations in building a new house upon that foundation—one that can be a home for the hopes of mankind and a shelter against the storms of conflict."

Referring to his Peking trip in February as well as his meeting with Soviet leaders, Nixon declared "the summits of 1972" are "part of a great national journey for peace."

While deep philosophical differences persist and the threat of war has been reduced but not eliminated, he said, historians will record 1972 as "the year when America helped to lead the world up out of the lowlands of constant war, and onto the high plateau of lasting peace."

Nixon recited the range of agreements on space cooperation, joint medical efforts and other accords announced at Moscow and predicted the new U.S.-Soviet Joint Commercial Commission will reach a comprehensive trade agreement later this year.

"And most important," he said, "there is the treaty and related executive agreement which will limit, for the first time, both offensive and defensive strategic nuclear weapons in the arsenals of the United States and the U.S.S.R."

Mustering arguments against conservative critics of the missiles accords, Nixon continued:

"Three-fifths of all the people alive in the world today have spent their whole lifetimes under the shadow of nuclear war which could be touched off by the arms race among the great powers....

"With this step we have enhanced the security of both nations. We have begun to check the wasteful and dangerous spiral of nuclear arms which has dominated relations between our two countries for a generation."

"No power on earth is stronger than the United States of America today," he said. "None will be stronger than the United States of America in the future."

Nixon Reaction

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's report to Congress on the U.S.-Soviet arms accord drew enthusiastic cheers, condemnation from several Democrats who saw it as a campaign speech and general agreement that the Moscow accords will win legislative approval.

A booming "Yea," primarily from the Republican side of the House chamber, greeted the President as he arrived to report to a joint session of Congress Thursday night.

In the halls afterward, Republicans and many Democrats said the President had made a balanced appeal for congressional approval of the two arms-limitation agreements.

Other Democrats expressed disappointment in harsh terms.

"He had good prime time to talk to the American public with an eye on the November elections," said House Democratic Whip Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. of Massachusetts. "And he didn't tell us a thing we didn't already know."

Democratic presidential contender Sen. George McGovern, campaigning in California, said the absence of all but a passing reference to Vietnam was a "painful weakness" in the address. He Dummy Up!

"Something frightening but innocuous" is one of the dictionary definitions of a scarecrow. The evolution of these human-appearing objects with baggy pants and stretched-out beefy arms dates back to the days when crows and other birds first became a nuisance on the farm. Here, guarding the kitchen garden at the

Paul Evans residence at 2512 West Main is this well-built, life-sized scarecrow attired in blue overalls, plaid shirt, an attractive scarf and a prominent hat which shades his face from the blinding sun. Looking over the dummy is 14-month-old Mark Douglas Rau, the Evans' grandson.

Angela Davis Case Presented To Jury

BULLETIN

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — The Angela Davis case went to the jury Friday after her 13-week trial on murder-kidnap-conspiracy charges stemming from a bloody courthouse escape attempt.

In his final instructions to the jury, Superior Court Judge Richard E. Arnason said the verdict must be based on the evidence and declared that both Miss Davis and the prosecution have the right "to a just verdict, regardless of what the consequences may be."

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — The case of Angela Davis, labeled by the defense as "a gigantic hoax" and "a sorry stain in the history of justice in this country," goes to the jury today.

Her attorney urged the all-white jury to "be black, think black."

Superior Court Judge Richard E. Arnason will deliver final instructions before the jury of seven women and five men begins deliberations.

In an emotion-packed final argument Thursday, defense attorney Leo A. Branton said only an "idiotic fool" could believe that a brilliant college teacher such as Angela Davis helped plan a disorganized courthouse escape attempt that ended in the deaths of four persons.

Miss Davis is charged with murder, kidnap and conspiracy and faces a life sentence if convicted.

At one point, Branton stood by a large easel, ripped off a large paper and revealed an almost life-sized drawing of Miss Davis—Afro hairdo, large glasses and miniskirt—with heavy chains on her hands and legs. "If the prosecution had its way, that's how Miss Davis would end up," he said.

Minutes later, Branton switched the drawing to one showing Miss Davis with chains lying broken at her feet and declared: "When this case is over, you will pull away these chains, because that's where the chains should be in this case—broken, bent and destroyed."

When Branton finished, he walked behind the defense table and kissed Miss Davis, who had listened intently to his arguments. She delivered the defense's opening statement but did not testify on her own behalf.

Prosecutor Albert Harris Jr., who had the final word at the 13-week old trial, asked the jury to disregard "emotional appeals," look at evidence fairly and "see that justice is done" by bringing in a guilty verdict.

The evidence clearly shows, he said, that Miss Davis, a 28-year-old black Communist, helped Jonathan Jackson engineer the Aug. 7, 1970 escape attempt because she was in love with his older brother, George, and wanted to free him from San Quentin Prison.

The prosecution contends Miss Davis knowingly furnished Jonathan four guns which he brandished in Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley's Marin County courtroom where San Quentin convict James McClain was on trial.

Composite Picture Is Planned

A 33-year-old Sedalia woman who was abducted and raped Wednesday afternoon on a county road about six miles southwest of Sedalia will be making a composite picture of her assailant within two days, Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney Adam Fischer said Friday.

Fischer said a composite picture kit from the Missouri Highway Patrol in Lee's Summit will be brought in and the woman will work with technicians to complete a "sketch" of the man.

Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said Thursday the woman's description of the rapist essentially matches the description of the man who raped a 30-year-old housewife April 19. Fairfax said his department is looking for one man in connection with both incidents.

According to the descriptions of both women, the man is about 6-feet tall, between 160 and 170 pounds, has collar length dark hair, a mustache and long sideburns. County officials also said he has no identifiable features, such as scars or tattoos.

Fischer said a man dressed in "regular brown slacks and a sport shirt" attacked the recent victim. He also said Friday there were no new developments in the case.

Troop Movements On Israel Border

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli jets swooped over southern Lebanon and troop movements were reported along the border Thursday night, heightening expectation of an attack in reprisal for the massacre at Tel Aviv international airport.

In Israel, fear of another terrorist attack sent extra troops and ambulances racing to the airport Thursday night, and passengers and all baggage on at least six incoming flights were searched thoroughly. Unofficial reports said the lone survivor of the three-man Japanese suicide mission told interrogators that another slaughter was planned.

There was no attack. In a midnight radio broadcast, Transport Minister Shimon Peres said "increased security measures have been put in force" and will continue.

Israeli Skyhawk and Mirage jets spent 15 minutes over southern Lebanon, and Palestinians in Beirut said attack on the area appeared inevitable.

Some Lebanese, however, predicted the Israelis would hit neither guerrilla bases in the south, scene of many Israeli raids, nor the Beirut airport, where security has been tightened considerably.

"The Israelis must use the element of surprise," one observer said. "They will probably pick the least expected form of retaliation."

A main thoroughfare in Beirut and a refugee camp on the road to the airport were mentioned as possible targets. Women and children have been evacuated from some guerrilla camps.

The Israeli government blamed Lebanon for the attack, charging that it harbored the guerrilla organization which hired the three Japanese terrorists, the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine. Lebanon's ambassador to the United Nations denied this, saying the Front had a press office only in Beirut.

Israel's U.N. ambassador, Yosef Tekoah, said that Egypt as well as Lebanon bore a special responsibility for the attack, in which 26 persons including two of the terrorists were killed and about 70 wounded.

"Egypt, as you know, has become the motive factor behind this terror warfare," Tekoah told newsmen at U.N. headquarters in New York.

The three Japanese arrived in Israel aboard an Air France flight, and their submachine guns and grenades escaped detection because they were in their checked luggage.

Food Prices Surge, But Jobless Rate Is Stable

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new surge in food prices pushed up wholesale prices faster last month than in March and April, while the nation's unemployment rate remained unchanged at 5.9 per cent.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said today farm products rose 1.4 per cent in May after declining the two previous months. Largely as a result of that, wholesale prices of all commodities rose 0.6 per cent after slight increases the two months before.

The nation's jobless rate failed to show any improvement despite a slight increase in the total number of persons holding jobs. The bureau said 5.9 per cent of the work force was still looking for jobs, the same percentage as in April and March.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate-House Economic Committee, called the 5.9 per cent unemployment figure "dismal news."

"I call upon the President," Proxmire said in a statement, "to set a specific interim goal of 4 per cent unemployment, set the date when it will be achieved, and push the policies to get the job done."

The wholesale price news appeared to spell a setback for President Nixon's program of wage and price controls.

The wholesale price index rose 0.6 per cent, or 0.5 per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis.

One encouraging note was the index of industrial commodities, where controls appear to have the most effect. These rose 0.3 per cent in May, the same as in March and a little below the 0.4 per cent of April.

When seasonal factors are discounted, wholesale prices of industrial commodities rose 0.4 per cent, the same as in April.

The most discouraging news for consumers was in the wholesale prices of farm products and processed foods and feeds, most of which are not controlled.

These had fallen 0.4 per cent in March and 0.7 per cent in April, but jumped 1.4 per cent last month. On a seasonally adjusted basis, the increase was still 0.8 per cent.

Farm products alone soared 2.6 per cent. Processed foods and feeds went up 0.8 per cent.

Especially distressing to housewives was a 4.5 per cent increase in livestock prices, renewing pressure on supermarket prices of meats.

The unemployment figures showed little change in all categories. The jobless rate for adult men was unchanged at 4.3 per cent while the rate for adult women rose 0.5 per cent to 5.9 per cent.

They said they will have 40,000 more signatures in a few weeks.

Another peace group operating in the IRA stronghold of "Free Derry" in Londonderry, claimed its week-old petition calling for a cease-fire had 4,000 signatures with hundreds more coming.

The claims reflected growing Catholic disenchantment with the IRA Provisionals, who have pledged to continue their bloody campaign to drive the British out of the province despite a four-day-old cease-fire by their Marxist rivals. The Official wing of the underground army.

One of the leaders of the two-week-old Belfast peace campaign, Mrs. Mary Spackman, a 38-year-old mother of six, said:

"If the Provisionals are the army of the people, they are going to have to listen to the people. If they have a political case to put to the people, let them do it and put their guns away."

The British army reported one of the quietest nights in weeks with only minor BELFAST (AP) — A road mine at the border of the Irish Republic killed two British soldiers today and wounded two others as Roman Catholic women seeking peace in Northern Ireland claimed growing thousands of followers.

A British army spokesman said it appeared that the mine had been detonated from inside the republic. He said a second mine was found in the same vicinity, with wires stretching 2,000 yards into the republic, but it was defused.

The soldiers were on a foot patrol inspecting the border area near Rosslea, in County Fermanagh.

The death of the soldiers brought the toll to 354 in three years of communal violence in Northern Ireland.

An eight-woman group in the Andersontown district of Belfast, one of the toughest Roman Catholic areas in the city, claimed they had 40,000 signatures on a petition demanding that the Irish Republican Army's militant Provisional wing put down its guns.

shootings incidents and clashes between troops and bands of youngsters. No casualties were reported.

Across the border in the Irish Republic, a fire bomb set off a blaze in the American Express office in downtown Dublin, and police speculated that it was planted by Protestant extremists from Northern Ireland.

The fire did little damage.

The IRA suffered another blow. British police said they had uncovered an aerial arms smuggling pipeline from San Francisco to Ireland when a case of guns broke open Tuesday at London Airport while being unloaded from an El Al jet.

Two trunks full of arms and ammunition were then discovered at Shannon Airport, police said.

Thousands of angry militants of the Protestant Ulster Vanguard Movement plan to march on "Free Derry" Saturday to protest the British army's refusal to attack the Catholic stronghold. British authorities have banned the march, hoping to prevent a clash between Protestants and Catholics.

At Methodist Conference

Urge Amnesty For Protestors

(Democrat-Capital Service)

FAYETTE — In a close vote, the Missouri West Conference of the United Methodist Church approved a resolution calling for amnesty for war protestors in exile and in prisons. A proposed statement of opposition to anti-ballistic missile bases in Missouri was defeated by a narrow margin.

The denomination's annual gathering of ministers and laymen in Western Missouri was held Thursday at the Central Methodist College here. About 100 Sedalia district ministers and laymen attended the conference. The conference, which began on May 23, was dedicated to the presiding bishop, the Right Rev. Eugene M. Frank, and his wife. They will leave Missouri in July, to be reassigned to another area, in accordance with church law.

The annual conference also approved a new structure for programming, determined a total conference budget of $2,385,178 for 1973, and authorized a telegram to President Richard Nixon expressing appreciation for his leadership in arms limitation.

In a special recognition service for Bishop and Mrs.

Frank on May 24, it was announced that the conference would build a chapel in Rhodesia in their honor, establish a scholarship at the Central Methodist College here and at Philander Smith College in Little Rock, Ark., and provide a trip to the Holy Land for the bishop and his wife.

Area Appointments

According to the Rev. Edward Neimeyer, superintendent of the Sedalia district, the following ministers were appointed at the conference to pastorates in area churches:

Calhoun-Drake Chapel, the Rev. Jerry Geisert; Chilhowee-Norris, the Rev. Clifford Hubbard; Centerville-Houts Chapel, the Rev. Charles Grant; Cole Camp and Ionia, the Rev. Paul Bond; LaMonte, Georgetown and El Dorado, the Rev. Jerrie Jones; Leeton, the Rev. Gordon Bachus; Pleasant Hill, the Rev. John H. Thornberry; Black Oak, Mrs. C.C. Templeton.

There are no changes in pastorates in Sedalia, Mr. Neimeyer told The Democrat-Capital.

Gorilla Statue Is Reported Missing

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Canton police are looking for a gorilla—of the statue variety.

Police said Arlie Cornell, owner of the Adventure Putt Golf Course, reported Thursday that the display attraction he kept at the course was missing.

The missing gorilla is described as 7½-feet high, covered by black nylon, with yellow eyes, outstretched arms and a red tongue.

Explosion Of Tank Car Injures 11

DALLAS (AP) — A Missouri-Pacific railroad tank car exploded in flames Thursday night, injuring at least 11 persons and forcing evacuation of many homes on the city's East Side.

About 75 families left their homes and 15 units of an apartment house were emptied after the blast.

Many of the injured, none believed seriously hurt, were cut by shattering window glass, firemen said.

At least three homes near the explosion were badly burned. There was lesser damage to 20 other houses, mostly broken windows.

The fire went to four alarms as firemen sought to keep the flames from exploding another tank car that contained ethylene gas.

Texas has more deer than any other state.

Church News

James 2:10-18 will be the basis of the Sunday morning sermon at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Sweet Springs. Pastor Ross E. Haupt will preach or "Worship, Witness and Work."

Holy communion will be observed in the 8 a.m. service.

The Rev. Roger E. Williams, pastor of Broadway Presbyterian Church, will preach Sunday morning on the subject, "God's Infinite Patience."

"The Will of God" will be the sermon topic of the pastor, the Rev. Eugene Trice, at Epworth United Methodist Church Sunday morning. There will be a special assembly of all pupils

Morning Devotions

The speaker for the coming week on KDRO's "Morning Devotions" program will be the Rev. Orval Woolery, superintendent of missions of the Harmony Baptist Association.

The program can be heard at 8:45 a.m. each weekday on 1490 on the AM dial.

Youth Retreat At Maplewood This Weekend

A two-day youth crusade has been scheduled at Maplewood Church, State Road O, north of East Highway 50.

The crusade is a joint effort of teenagers of Maplewood Church and the Community Church in Baring, Mo. Area youths are invited to the crusade, the Rev. James Kane, pastor said.

The crusade kickoff supper will be at 5:30 p.m. Friday, followed by a prayer-and-study fellowship. At 8 p.m. a Ken Anderson film, "The Mind Benders," will be shown. This will be followed by special music and a weiner roast.

Saturday's schedules will begin with devotions at 9 a.m. A Kids' Club for children between ages three and 12 will be held at the church from 11 a.m. to noon. The day's activities will conclude with a meeting at 2:15 p.m.

Those who need transportation to the crusade are asked to call 826-4146.

Thursday Services At Lutheran Church

For the benefit of those who will be away from Sedalia during weekends, Our Saviour Lutheran Church, 3700 West Broadway, will hold a regular worship service on Thursdays. The service will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. Roger Sonnenberg, pastor, said that the Thursday service will be in addition to the Sunday school and worship service on Sundays.

Killed in Accident

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Sammy Grandberry, 21, of St. Louis, was killed today by a car which struck him and sped away, police said.

Witnesses said the car was a Cadillac.

Confirmed at Trinity

These four youths of Trinity Lutheran Church were recently confirmed. Seen with their pastor are, from left to right, Henry Klover, Dennis Heaton, the Rev. Gregory Hibbard, Barbara McEwen and Don Hartley. The rite of confirmation was the climax of two years of study of the Bible, Luther's Small Catechism, Lutheran doctrine, church history and Christian hymnody.

Explains Secret Of Fund Raising

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — He has the look of a Wall Street banker, assured and urbane, with a trim mustache. He has made his reputation in big money. But it's not for himself. It's for church schools, hospitals and other benevolent institutions around the world.

"The church needs to get out of its Volkswagen mentality about money," says John Park Lee. "It should quit thinking small, and think big."

That's what he has been doing for the last nine years, and in that period, he has raised $64 million of extra capital for the United Presbyterian Church, strongly topping a goal of $50 million.

How did he do it? "You go after the big gifts first," he says. "That stimulates all the rest."

It's a technique, he adds, that the churches traditionally have failed to use, although other major institutions use it. Churches customarily have relied simply on contributions made through local congregations.

But Lee, 68, a onetime public relations counselor and newspaperman who was picked up to run his denomination's large-scale drive for capital funds, has set a new pattern for financing Christian operations. "You go into the office of a big steel corporation executive and interest him in backing some important church educational center that needs a lot of money to keep going. It's the kind of thinking that appeals to him."

In contrast, when merely giving through their local congregations, the wealthy are included to keep donations down to the general level, so as to avoid dominating the budget and to leave responsibility for its dispersed.

But outside this restraining setting, Lee says, the wealthy feel free to match their church support with their resources.

"Success is sweet," says Lee, who recently closed his New York office and retired to Santa Fe, N.M. "But it was hard work. Now I can go back to singing second bass in the church choir."

Combined VBS Scheduled By Two Churches

Two Sedalia churches, Our Saviour Lutheran and Christ Lutheran, will hold a joint vacation Bible school Monday through June 9. The school, for children between ages 3 and 14, will be from 9 a.m. through 2 p.m. Pre-schoolers will be dismissed at 11:45 a.m.

The theme of the school will be "Family."

Classes from nursery through third grade will meet at Our Saviour Lutheran Church, Highway 50 West. Grades four through eight will meet at Christ Lutheran Church, 11th and Thompson Blvd.

Children are asked to bring a sack lunch. The churches will provide drink.

A VBS parade will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday. The parade, which will begin at Christ Lutheran, will be escorted by Sedalia policemen.

Those who need transportation are asked to call 826-7877 or 826-5455.

Donates Land For 31-Acre City Park

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The small community of Lutesville, about 125 miles south of here, will dedicate a 31-acre park Sunday because of a businessman's generosity.

Frank Pellegrino, board chairman of International Hat Co., said he donated land surrounding the company's Lutesville plant because "we have had fine relations with the community and felt we wanted to do this."

"I decided to give them the land and finance the development of the park," Pellegrino added. The park will be named in honor of Pellegrino's mother.

Bottom Falls Out of Park In Oklahoma

COMMERCE, Okla. (AP) — Commerce Lions Club plans for a city park suffered a setback when the bottom fell out of the park Wednesday night.

Work was to begin today on filling up a hole 60 feet deep and 80 feet in diameter. The ground fell in with a loud rumble about an hour before sunset Wednesday. No one was injured.

Authorities barricaded old U.S. 66-69 nearby, but a state mine inspector found an old mining map and determined the highway was in no danger. The barricades were lifted Thursday.

Jack Frasier, the mine inspector, said recent rains apparently washed out supports in an old mine shaft.

Commerce was one of the sites of heavy lead and zinc mining operations in northeast Oklahoma.

Bussie Corbus, Commerce postmaster and Lions Club park committee chairman, said the hole would be filled again as soon as possible.

The park land was donated and there were two other holes which needed to be filled in.

"I'm kind of glad it happened because it will really be safer now than it was before," said Corbus.

Work Keeps Physician Youthful

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "You know, I just can't make myself feel old," mused James Carlisle. "Why to look at me you'd think I was just a young thing—early 70s maybe."

At 84, Carlisle is a doctor of medicine who ministers to the sick "with a gentle hand and a twinkle in my eye. You've got to care about them to help them, and I've cared for a half a century."

A dropout "who left school because my daddy had smallpox and we were all under quarantine," Dr. Carlisle has worked for a cotton factory, been a restaurant cook and hustled money as a bank messenger. But eventually he went back to high school, then college and finally was graduated from Tulane University's School of Medicine.

And what does he foresee for the future?

"Lots and lots of things are ahead of us—I expect to see leukemia controlled, the life span of man lengthened, and of course, a cure for cancer will be found."

And Carlisle himself plans to keep right on practicing. "But no more babies," said the physician who hung out his shingle at Palm Beach in 1925.

"I must have brought at least 1,000 new souls into this world in my lifetime. But I guess they still deliver them the same way—that's one thing that's isn't likely to change much."

DEATH NOTICES

Rev. Thomas Harvey

AUSTIN, Tex. — The Rev. Thomas Hudnall Harvey, dean of the Episcopal Seminary here, died Wednesday morning from a heart attack.

He married Dora DeMuth Bouldin, a former Sedalian, who survives of the home.

Also surviving are two daughters, Mrs. James Aldrich, Albuquerque, N.M.; Miss Anne Harvey, and a son, Thomas Harvey Jr., both of Austin, Tex. He was the son-in-law of Mrs. John Sneed, Route 5, Sedalia.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon in the Chapel of the Episcopal Seminary.

Graveside services and burial will be at 2 p.m. Sunday in Mount Carmel Cemetery, near Marshall.

Mrs. Clara S. Owen

Funeral services for Mrs. Clara S. Owen, 98, 1705 West 16th, who died at 3:30 a.m. Wednesday at the Buena Vista Nursing Home, will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at the McLaughlin Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Robert Magee officiating.

Burial will be in the Memorial Park Cemetery.

The family will receive friends from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday at the funeral chapel.

Thefts, Vandalism Reported To Police

Three thefts and an incident of vandalism were reported to police Thursday.

Vernon Ditton, of the City Street and Alley Department, told police someone had broken a window pane on the northeast corner of the City Barn, 901 East Third, to gain entry Wednesday night.

Upon investigation police found three nickel candy dispensers inside the building were broken into and an undetermined amount of change taken. The report indicated other vending machines in the building were not disturbed.

According to police, Jack Alfrey, 105 Helen Circle, reported a grease gun, valued at $12, and a box of tools, valued at $65, were taken from his pickup truck while it was parked at the Missouri State Fairgrounds sometime after 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Forrest Stark, 1604 East 12th, reported the spare tire, valued at $30, was taken from her husband's pickup truck over the weekend while it was parked at the above address.

Mrs. Tom Howerton, 708 East 15th, reported someone used a sharp object to damage a child's play pen at the above address.

Arrest Alabama Man For Tampering With Motor Vehicle

Samuel Yaw, 49, Birmingham, Ala., was charged with tampering with a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner Thursday in Magistrate Court in connection with the theft of a 1960 Chevrolet pick up from the Bryant Motor Co. used car lot after 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Yaw was arrested at Broadway and Porter at 12:45 a.m. Thursday after he reportedly left the scene of an accident at 12:10 a.m. Thursday involving the stolen vehicle and a car, owned by Elmer N. Draffen, 209 East Jackson, parked at 207 East Main.

Police reports indicate officers making the arrest had reason to believe Yaw had taken a large quantity of pills before being taken into custody. He was taken to Bothwell Hospital where he was treated and admitted for the night.

Upon dismissal from the hospital Thursday afternoon, Yaw was picked up by police and later placed in the Pettis County jail.

McGovern Is Rated Leader in Primary

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sen. George McGovern is rated the runaway leader in a poll of California Democrats ready to vote in the state's pivotal presidential primary Tuesday. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey called the survey baloney.

The California poll by opinion analyst Mervin D. Field gave McGovern a 20 per cent lead in advance of the primary, an election which the South Dakota senator says is likely to determine who wins the Democratic nomination for the White House.

Humphrey called the poll figures "nonsense, baloney."

"A 20-point lead at this time for a candidate is not possible," he said in Bakersfield.

McGovern himself said he had not "felt the margin was that much."

Even before the figures were published today, the McGovern organization had made an effort to play down his rating to avoid the risk involved in casting him as a landslide favorite.

The poll rated McGovern at 46 per cent of the vote, Humphrey at 26 and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, who is not on the ballot, third with 8 per cent. A write-in campaign is under way for Wallace, wounded and partially paralyzed in an assassination attempt May 15.

Thirteen per cent of the vote was listed as undecided with the balanced scattered among six other entries. The 271-vote California nominating delegation will go to the statewide primary leader on a winner-take-all basis.

A new poll conducted by McGovern's own organization also rated him far ahead, 44 per cent to Humphrey's 28.

McGovern and Humphrey both were campaigning in the San Francisco area today. They meet head-on again Sunday in a third joint appearance on national television.

Humphrey said he would have "a few things to unload" during that session. He wouldn't say what.

The Minnesota senator said he still expects to win on Tuesday.

But McGovern said in a television interview he expects to capture the Democratic presidential nomination on the first vote at the national convention in July.

Wallace's wife, Cornelia, plugged in Los Angeles for write-in votes for her wounded husband.

"I don't think you ought to minimize Gov. Wallace because he'll have strength at the convention," Humphrey said. "He'll have something to say about who gets the nomination."

McGovern, meanwhile, said that he does not intend to make any deals with such politicians as Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago or Wallace.

Iraq Suspends Exports Of Oil; Schedules Talks

BEIRUT (AP) — The Iraqi government today suspended exports of its country's oil from Mediterranean terminals and sent its foreign minister to Moscow for "important talks" in the wake of the nationalization of the European-American Iraq Petroleum Co.

President Ahmed Hassan al Bakr in a broadcast Thursday night announced the seizure of the company, which accounted for about 10 per cent of the Middle East's oil production. The president said the former owners would be compensated, and his government was setting up a new company to take over all IPC facilities.

The government should have little difficulty operating the new company since most of IPC's employees are Iraqis. But presumably the foreign minister went to Moscow to ask Soviet help in marketing the oil in order to circumvent legal action by IPC.

A Baghdad broadcast today said the Mediterranean terminals of IPC's pipeline from its fields in northern Iraq had been instructed to suspend exports indefinitely. The terminals are at Baniyas, Syria, and Tripoli, Lebanon, with the Lebanese terminal fed by a spur from the line through Syria.

Syria nationalized the pipeline Thursday night in the wake of the Iraqi action. Lebanon took no action on the company's properties there.

IPC's headquarters are in London and its assets are valued at more than $350 million. Two U.S. firms, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Mobil, own 23.75 per cent of the stock; British Petroleum, Royal Dutch Shell and Compagnie Francaise des Petroles own 23.75 per cent each, and the Gulbenkian Foundation has 5 per cent.

Bakr said his Socialist regime was willing to continue dealing with the French partner in the consortium "because of France's honorable stand toward the Arab cause."

The French company said it is carefully examining Iraq's proposal but regretted that negotiations between Iraqi officials and IPC had failed. If the French don't take over operation of the company, it was assumed that the Iraqis would turn to the Russians, who are helping them develop their North Rumelia field.

IPC accounted for the bulk of Iraq's oil production, which in 1971 averaged 1.7 million barrels a day.

Iraq and other oil-producing countries have been bargaining with Western oil companies for a 20 per cent share in the companies' stock. But Iraq, which got close to $900 million a year from IPC, or 85 per cent of the government's revenue, nationalized IPC after the company refused to raise production in its northern oil fields, Bakr said.

Nixon

pledged support for the agreements, however.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., heading up Democratic platform hearings in Pittsburgh, also noted that Vietnam was barely touched on. Until the war is resolved, he said, "We have not fully achieved our goals for real peace in the world."

Republican Rep. John Ashbrook, seeking his party's presidential nomination, accused Nixon of keeping parts of the agreement secret. Detailing comparisons of Soviet and American weapons capabilities growing from the agreements, Ashbrook said the Soviets "could deploy significantly more weapons than we could."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who earlier had complained the Moscow agreements "give the Soviets more of everything," called Nixon's nationally broadcast report "a clever campaign speech on foreign policy, full of platitudes and generalities signifying nothing."

Leaders in both the House and Senate predicted Congress will approve the strategic - arms - limitation - talks - SALT - agreements but set no time-table pending more information.

"We'll wait to see the details," said House Foreign Affairs Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., "especially what we gave up on the SALT agreements."

Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., refused comment on the President's report. So did Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield.

But Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., praised the President for making "a good presentation of what he has done." He said the arms agreements stand "a good chance for approval by the Congress."

Power Plant Is Target For Planes

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Phantom jets attacked one of Hanoi's power plants Thursday and blew out the center of a bridge on the northeast rail line to China, the U.S. Command announced today.

The attack on the Bac Giang power plant 25 miles northeast of Hanoi was the first since the resumption of the full-scale bombing of North Vietnam in April 6. The command said the 12,000-kilowatt plant was a "major source of electrical power to war-related industries" in the Hanoi area.

The pilots reported damage to the plant and its support buildings but said heavy smoke from the fires they caused prevented an assessment of the damage.

The attack was made by only a small number of Air Force F4s because the pilots used the super-accurate "smart" bombs guided by laser light beams and nose-cone television cameras.

Sweeping farther north, a second flight of Phantoms using the same technique attacked the Cao Nung railroad bridge midway between Hanoi and the Chinese border. The pilots said they dropped two center spans of the five-span bridge.

No jets were reported lost in the raids.

The U.S. Command reported more than 220 tactical air strikes across North Vietnam Thursday and said that four other bridges, three fuel depots, 21 surface craft, 21 supply buildings, and 18 pieces of railroad rolling stock were destroyed or damaged.

In South Vietnam, an explosion believed to be from a satchel charge wrecked the South Vietnamese tactical operations command post in the central coastal city of Qui Nhon.

First reports said one South Vietnamese soldier was killed and 15 South Vietnamese, two South Koreans and three U.S. advisers were wounded.

There were unconfirmed reports that some Viet Cong agents had gotten in disguised as government soldiers.

In the central highlands, South Vietnamese forces said they beat back a predawn assault on the outer defense perimeter of Kontum City, and 79 North Vietnamese were killed. Spokesmen in Pleiku said three government troops were killed and six were wounded.

Says Ford Must Meet Requirements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmental Protection Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus said today he will allow the Ford Motor Co. to produce and ship its 1973 cars provided initial tests indicate they will meet federal antipollution requirements in full-scale testing.

The proposed issuance of conditional certification would avert a threatened shutdown that could have thrown up to 450,000 workers out of their jobs for a month or more.

The threat arose last month when Ford notified Ruckelshaus that its tests to qualify its new cars for required antipollution certificates contained errors and Ruckelshaus found he was unable to grant certification.

He told a news conference today that all of Ford's test vehicles had received "unscheduled, unauthorized, and unreported maintenance to a degree as to make this data unacceptable" for the certification.

He said Ford was repeating the tests but this would take at least 3½ months which would delay full certification until at least two months after Ford planned to start production.

Federal clean air laws prohibit interstate shipment of uncertified cars and, if this were strictly enforced, Ford would have to shut down its auto production for a month or more, Ruckelshaus said.

But he said the law authorized him to issue conditional certifications.

Wiretapping Law Target For Judge

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A judge has declared unconstitutional the 1968 federal law allowing wiretapping on grounds that it puts "the privacy of every citizen in jeopardy."

U.S. District Court Judge Joseph S. Lord III made the ruling Thursday in connection with a motion by seven defendants in an alleged $10 million gambling case who sought to suppress evidence gathered by electronic surveillance.

U.S. Atty. Peter Vaira, chief of the Justice Department's strike force on organized crime here, discounted any immediate effect the ruling would have.

In Washington, a Justice Department spokesman said there would be no comment on the ruling until the Criminal Division obtained a copy and studied it.

Judge Lord said the law was "unconstitutional on its face" because it violated the 4th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which guarantees citizens privacy against unwarranted searches and intrusions.

"The privacy of every citizen is in jeopardy if we become a nation which sanctions the indiscriminate use of secret electronic searches by the government," the judge said.

A wiretap had been placed on the phone of Matthew F. Whitaker, 58, of Pottstown, who police described as the gambling czar of Schuylkill County in eastern Pennsylvania.

He and the others were arrested in a series of FBI raids in June 1970, and charged with operating a $10 million professional sports and horse race betting ring.

The tap was authorized under the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 by the late U.S. District Court Judge John W. Lord Jr.

Judge John Lord and Judge Joseph Lord were not related.

The wiretap law has not been tested by the U.S. Supreme Court. But the high court has ruled in several earlier cases that wiretaps are constitutional if authorized by a warrant.

The law requires that the U.S. attorney general first determine that a wiretap is needed in a case and personally authorize agents to request a warrant from a judge.

Lord's found three aspects of the 1968 law faulty. He said:

—It allows continuous searches for too long.

—It gives too much discretion to investigators.

—It does not require that the subjects of secret surveillance be notified promptly when the surveillance is completed.

Reinstate Former Welfare Provision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee has voted to reinstate the "man in the house" rule allowing states to refuse welfare benefits to a mother and children living with a man not legally related to them.

The provision would upset a 1968 Supreme Court ruling which stated that welfare benefits could not be denied a mother and children in such cases.

The committee also decided Thursday to provide, under its new Workfare program, that children of welfare parents who refuse to take a job could be referred to local child welfare agencies, which would be directed to make some provision for them.

It had indicated earlier that, if welfare parents declined to work, their children would get no assistance either.

The committee also agreed Thursday that a parent refusing to work would get one month's wages while officials tried to persuade him to take a job.

Under Workfare, about 1.2 million adults now on welfare, mostly mothers, would lose their eligibility for assistance.

Ann Landers

Ann Says Help Is Where You Find It

Dear Ann Landers: This is an answer to "Swinger's Wife." Some people are totally incapable of establishing permanent relationships, because when they were growing up, everyone they became attached to betrayed them, moved away or died. As an adult, the Swinger still needs love but he is afraid to allow himself to fall in love because he is terrified of being hurt again. He cannot handle mature relationships, such as marriage or fatherhood, so he seeks out someone like himself, someone who will settle for a superficial, hit-and-run encounter.

If, in a moment of weakness, The Swinger does decide to marry, he makes a very poor husband and an inadequate father. Invariably he visits misery on everyone whose life he touches.

The only answer is Jesus Christ. I know this is true because I have tried everything else and nothing worked. The day I found Him my life changed.

In all the years I have been reading your column you have never once suggested Jesus Christ as the solution to a problem. Surely I am not the first person who has written to you along these lines. Even though you might not agree that Jesus is the greatest healer of all you should print a letter which mentions Him as a possibility. Please show the proper ecumenical spirit. — A Believer

Dear Believer: Never let it be said that I failed to show the proper ecumenical spirit. Here is your letter and my thanks for writing it. If Jesus provided the answer for you, I say, "Wonderful!" Help is where you find it.

Dear Ann Landers: Two years ago my husband died and left me well fixed. The family home had been an important part of my life for 30 years and I decided not to move. Two of my children begged me to live with them but I refused. My youngest daughter, with whom I have a very good relationship, said, "If you won't come and live with us, how would you like US to come and live with YOU?" I said, "I'd love it!" So they moved in eight months ago with their 15-year-old daughter.

The question I am writing about may seem ridiculous but I'd like an answer. My granddaughter and her boyfriend talk on the phone three times a day. They go to the same school and walk home together. They usually stand in front of the house and visit for half an hour. As soon as he gets home he calls her up. They talk for about 20 minutes. Immediately after supper she telephones him. This conversation lasts about half an hour. At ten o'clock on the dot he calls her "to say goodnight." That conversation goes on for about 30 minutes.

I am very fond of my granddaughter. The young man is attractive and well-behaved. I am not being critical. I had lots of beaux when I was young — but what I'd like to know is what in the world do these kids talk about. Thank you, Ann. — Baffled Gram

Dear Gram: Don't you remember?

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a heavy drinker. He refuses to admit that he cannot handle his liquor. In the past year he has had three car accidents. The first two were minor but the last one was serious. He nearly bled to death.

My nerves are shot because I don't know what will happen to him the next time. Will you please tell me how to help this man of mine? — Hell In Hanover

Dear H.H.: I know of no way to help an alcoholic who refuses to admit he has a problem. Your husband is trying to kill himself. He's using a bottle instead of a gun. Write to Al-Anon and get some help for yourself.

Governor Signs 10 More Bills

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has signed 10 more bills passed by the 1972 legislature, leaving him with 89 to go, including the major appropriation bills.

One signed Thursday would require a candidate's campaign committee to file their expense reports in the county where the candidate lives, instead of another state.

It was the outgrowth of the 1970 senatorial campaign of Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth, when two of his committees filed reports in Illinois and Oklahoma because that's where the committee treasurers lived. Danforth said there was no intent to circumvent the old law which did not contain the new residency requirement.

Another signed Thursday makes it mandatory for the chief highway engineer to issue special overweight and over-length truck permits when they are justified, instead of leaving him with optional authority.

Others included measures to: Let the St. Louis prosecuting attorney hire and fire his employees instead of having them serve for specific terms.

Allow six-district school districts to sell surplus property to cities or other local government units by negotiation instead of public bid.

Allow county courts to appoint two welfare recipients as additional members of county welfare commissions, one from each party.

Permit St. Louis County to levy a combined 38-cent tax for county health and hospital purposes, with no change in the total rate.

Raise the pay of the St. Louis city sheriff from $15,000 to $20,000 a year.

Allow the state to reimburse the St. Louis public library for rent paid to provide services to the blind.

Loophole Proposal Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gradual reform or abolition of 54 tax loopholes or special deductions, including the oil-depletion allowance, has been proposed by Rep. Wilbur Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Despite its concurrent introduction in the Senate by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and the way Mills holds in the House on tax matters, most observers give the proposal little chance for passage during an election year. It even appears doubtful the measure will be aired in the current session of Congress.

In any case, the reforms would be spread out over three years, not beginning until Jan. 1, 1974.

They would require Congress to re-enact some loopholes, modify them or let them die at the rate of 18 for each of the three years.

Introduction of the legislation was in apparent response to growing demands from members of Congress and others for broad tax reforms, including abolition of special breaks to business and wealthy persons.

There was no official estimate of the amount of revenue the government might save, but one source said about $47 billion of tax deductions would be wiped out in 1974 if the reforms were enacted.

Included over the three years such categories as the oil and mineral-depletion allowances, accelerated business-depreciation rules, capital gains, sick-pay exclusion, the $25,000 corporate surtax exemption, and extra exemptions for the aged and blind, children with income in excess of $750, child-care costs and charitable contributions.

Also affected would be political campaign contributions and deductions for nonbusiness interest and taxes.

Mills said he wants to guarantee an orderly and systematic review of tax laws.

Harmony Is Recommended By Astronaut

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "When you look at the world from the moon, it's just one world," one of the nation's three Apollo 16 astronauts said Thursday. "We better learn to get along together or it's back to the caves."

The speaker was Air Force Col. Charles M. Duke Jr., who was feted along with Navy Capt. John W. Young and Navy Cmdr. Thomas K. Mattingly during a series of events Thursday in St. Louis.

The three, arriving from Houston on the first leg of a tour to include 12 cities, spoke first to aerospace employees of McDonnell Douglas Corp., then rode in a motorcade past waving crowds through downtown.

About 1,500 high school pupils heard the three later during a program at Harris Teachers College and a civic dinner and reception was held Thursday night.

Rejects Bid To Recall One Witness

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Chief Circuit Judge Michael Kinney denied a motion Thursday by a prosecution to recall the brother of David Rothenberg, 29, as a hostile witness in Rothenberg's murder trial.

Assistant state's atty. Robert Trone, in arguments heard with the Madison County jury out of the courtroom, contended Robert Rothenberg had told a friend details in the slaying of 41-year-old Glen Carbon insurance investigator William S. Wells, 41.

The information divulged to the friend, Trone argued, was prior to the time authorities had found Wells' body last Dec. 13 and determined the method of his killing.

Wells disappeared from a Glen Carbon tavern Dec. 10 and was found later beaten and shot, his body stuffed into the trunk of his automobile.

Previous testimony revealed Wells died from a blow to the head. Kinney denied the motion to recall Rothenberg's brother on the grounds the information he gave a friend was "double hearsay," that relayed from the defendant to the brother and to the third person.

Say Wallace May Be Kansas Choice

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — The Kansas Conservative Party may select Alabama Gov. George Wallace as its presidential candidate when it holds a nominating convention Saturday, party chairman Ray C. Hall, Manhattan, indicated Thursday.

Hall said the party is "in the process of considering" making Wallace its candidate, as it did in 1968.

"The support is there for him, there's no ignoring it," Hall said.

Hall, an assistant professor of chemical engineering at Kansas State University, said it would be inappropriate for him to speculate ahead of the convention whether Wallace would be the party's nominee, but he said:

"We are going to see that the people of the United States have an opportunity to express their desire on Gov. Wallace in November. If somebody else doesn't want him, we do."

"This is the great service the American Party is giving to the people of the United States. We are giving them a chance to express what they want to say—much more so than the old line parties."

The Kansas Conservative Party is affiliated with the American Party of the United States. Some members of the Kansas group say they are considering legal action to try to force the state to recognize the party under the name of the American Party.

Richard B. Kay, a Cleveland, Ohio attorney and an announced candidate for the American Party's presidential nomination, will be a luncheon speaker Saturday.

Kay, who was one of the civilian defense lawyers for Lt. William Calley Jr., has just returned from a tour of the Middle East.

He has scheduled a news conference here late Friday afternoon.

John Couture, a Muskegon, Wis., attorney and realtor, who is being recommended by the Kansas party's nominating committee as a vice presidential nominee, will be the principal speaker at a Saturday night dinner.

Thomas Hart Sr., Lawrence, Conservative Party convention chairman, has reportedly said he believes Wallace has "four or five times" as many supporters in Kansas now as he had in '68.

Wallace, who is hospitalized with wounds from an assassination attempt in Maryland, remains a candidate for the Democratic Party's nomination for president.

Hart estimated at least 200 persons will attend the Kansas convention.

The Conservatives will pick candidates for the state ballot and choose seven delegates to the American Party convention in Louisville Aug. 3-5.

Say Refund Checks Not Made Yet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission's rollback orders so far have billed American businesses for only $1.85 million in refunds, many of which aren't paid yet.

Officials say more and bigger rollbacks are coming. And, they say, consumers will benefit not only from refunds but also from lower prices.

Still, the refunds ordered so far are a long way from the "hundreds of millions of dollars in price cuts" that Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. said were in the works more than a month ago.

Edward T. York, the commission's deputy director of program operations, said in an interview Thursday that 42 firms have been ordered to cut prices, for an estimated total of $1.85 million in direct and indirect refunds. He said he didn't know how much has been paid so far. Half the rollback orders are less than a month old.

York said the number of rollbacks "is going to be growing rapidly" as staff members dig into a pile of reports on prices and profits recently submitted by businesses. And he said "the dollars are going to be bigger and bigger and bigger."

He also predicted that some major firms in major industries soon will follow the example of Ford Motor Co., which cut prices voluntarily in April to avoid triggering a rollback order by bumping into commission limits on profit margins. Ford estimates the price cuts, averaging $13 a car, will save buyers $20 million this year if sales keep up their present pace.

"You're going to see some more voluntary reductions in fairly good amounts of money," York said, declining to name any firms.

He said more and more of the commission's price-cut orders will be going to medium-sized firms, those with yearly sales between $50 million and $100 million.

Larger firms need advance permission to raise prices, but these "Tier II" firms merely report to the commission periodically. York said these reports now show many of them have raised prices without proper justification, and will have to roll them back.

Ignorance on price rules won't save these violators from having to trim prices. But York said the commission is less inclined to sue or prosecute these medium-sized violators than larger cheaters who should know better.

19-Year-Old Convicted

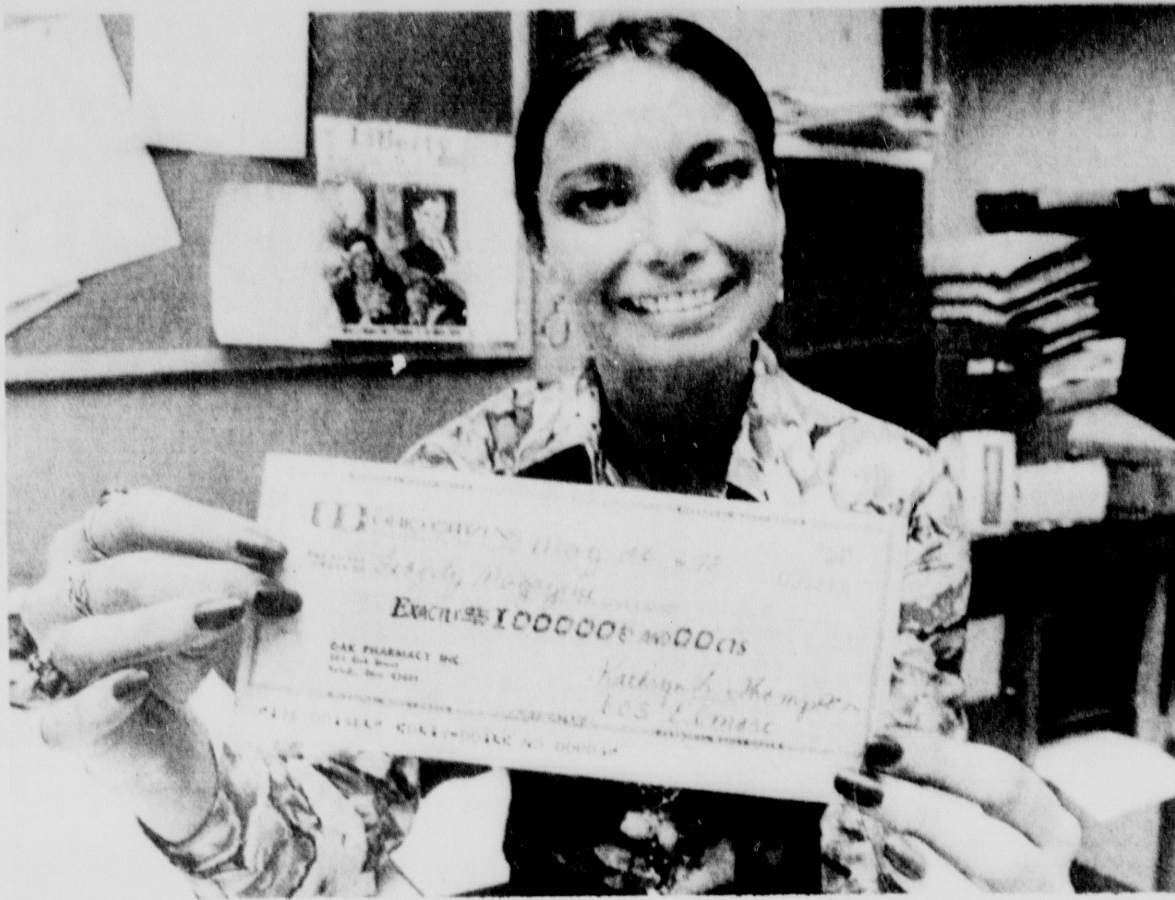

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Lawrence Daniel Baker, 19, was convicted by a jury Thursday on two counts of murder and one count of armed robbery.

The circuit court jury recommended life imprisonment on each murder count and 99 years for the robbery. The state had asked for the death penalty.

Two robbers were involved in the Nov. 20 slaying of John B. Kemp, 47, service station manager, and his attendant, William G. Simmons, 18.

Evidence in the trial included signed statements by Baker implying that his accomplice, Alonzo J. Wright, did the shooting. Wright hasn't been tried.

John Peak, trial prosecutor, told the jury, "All you have to find is that there was a robbery and two men were killed. It makes no difference whose finger was on the trigger of the murder weapon."

Popular Votes Place Wallace In Lead; Lacking Delegates

WASHINGTON (AP) — If popular votes were delegates, George C. Wallace would be leading the race for the Democratic presidential nomination.

In 16 primaries with some kind of presidential preference voting, Wallace has accumulated 3,407,453 votes, compared with 2,372,755 for George McGovern.

But McGovern has 497½ convention delegates lined up and predicts he will have 1,300 by the time the Democratic National Convention opens in Miami Beach July 10. Wallace has 323 delegates—about the number he is expected to take to the convention.

Plays Taps As Building Is Destroyed

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — A teenage boy blew taps as demolition work was begun Thursday on the old St. Clair County courthouse which has overlooked this city's public square since the Civil War.

The Citizens Courthouse Committee had sought to save the 111 year old structure, which the county public building commission said was too expensive to maintain or renovate and which must be torn down to make room for a new courthouse complex.

As the northwest corner of the building crumbled, so fell the hopes of the committee that fought three court battles in nearly three months to save the building.

The 5th District Appellate Court at Mount Vernon Wednesday rejected a request for a reversal of a previous court decision to permit the demolition.

About 400 persons watched as the workmen began tearing down the structure. The wrecking contractor said it would take about a week to complete the job.

Zoning Board Approves Request From Heckart

In an 18 minute session at City Hall the planning and zoning commission voted to recommend favorable action on a request by Del Heckart, president of Heckart-Gillespie Funeral Home, and suggested denial of a request by Mrs. Delores Smiddy, 802 Ruth Ann Dr.

Final disposition on all commission recommendations is up to the city council.

Heckart was represented at the hearing by his attorney, James Durley. Mrs. Smiddy was not present. However, a group of property owners appeared to voice their opposition to her request.

Durley explained Heckart wanted to rezone 108,000 square feet of land on the southwest corner of the city limits on West 16th from R-1 (residential) to C-O (non-commercial business). Durley said the land adjoining the property was owned by E. W. Thompson.

According to Durley, Thompson had no objection to Heckart's plan. A member of the board told The Democrat-Capital Heckart plans to build a new funeral home on the site.

In response to questions by board members, Durley said off-street parking space has been provided for and the structure will be situated 75 feet from the roadway.

Neither Mrs. Smiddy, nor her attorney, James Buckley, appeared before the commission to argue for the rezoning of a lot on Warren and Broadway from R-1 to C-O. However several property owners near the lot gave their opposing views to the request.

Neville Jonson, 1631 West Seventh, presented a petition against the proposed rezoning signed by residents of the neighborhood.

The request had been continued from the commission's April meeting. At that time Buckley had told The Democrat-Capital Mrs. Smiddy had planned to convert one room of the house on that lot into a real estate office.

Drawing Of Addition Underway

Architects are working on detailed drawings for the Bothwell Hospital expansion, and should be finished in about three months, according to Don Feeback, hospital administrator.

Feeback, speaking before the Kiwanis Club Thursday at the Bothwell Hotel, explained details of what he called the first phase of the hospital expansion, made possible by the recent sale of $1.8 million in hospital revenue bonds.

Explaining how the hospital would be expanded to the west, Feeback described the various improvements planned for each level. He said one of the most important improvements would be construction of the new surgical section close to recovery rooms and the intensive care unit.

Bob Gardner introduced the program.

No Verdict Given In Burglary Case

LIBERTY, Mo. (AP) — The jury has failed to reach a verdict in the case of Michael Jon (cq) Morrow, the first of eight former North Kansas City policemen to be tried in connection with an alleged burglary ring.

Judge Stephen R. Pratt of Clay County Circuit Court, declared a mistrial after the jury worked seven hours and still was divided 9-3. Warning the jurors not to disclose which side had the majority, the judge said a new trial will be scheduled on the June 12 docket.

Morrow was accused of helping steal some tires and 20 boxes of tile.

"It's been a good day," Morrow said after the mistrial ruling. "I'm happy as hell with my defense."

Gas Rate Increase Proposed By Firm

CHICAGO (AP) — Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America proposed Thursday to boost its wholesale natural gas rates by 6 per cent July 1. The increase would affect 48 municipal and utility customers in nine Midwestern states—Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas and Wisconsin.

In its application to the Federal Power Commission for the increase, Natural Gas Pipeline said the boost would yield $28 million a year to cover higher costs resulting from exploration for an acquisition of new gas supplies and additional pipeline and storage facilities.

Two Methods to Rid Refrigerator Odor

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Jean should set a dish of vanilla in her refrigerator that has the dead mouse smell. Change the vanilla daily and the odor should be gone in two or three days. I did not believe this would work until my mother defrosted her refrigerator and freezer and then forgot to turn them on before she left on a week's trip. She returned to find a lot of spoiled meat and chickens. We tried all the usual things and nothing worked until an uncle who works for a large food chain suggested vanilla as that is what they use. — MARGE

DEAR POLLY — I am answering Jean who has the odor from a dead mouse in her refrigerator. An odor in ours seemed impossible to eliminate so we first soaked newspaper sections in water and placed them in the box. When they were permeated with the odor they were removed and the process repeated and repeated. This helped some.

Next we filled foil trays with charcoal briquettes and allowed them to remain for several days. This was repeated for several weeks. Finally we used kitten litter placed in foil trays. We are now using our refrigerator for storing food. There is no short cut for getting rid of a very strong odor that may have worked into the insulation of the refrigerator. Good luck, Jean — MRS. G. P.

Rainmaking Program Enthusiasm Just a Sprinkle

By CHET CURRIER
Associated Press Writer

A proposed federal rain-making program has generated only a sprinkle of enthusiasm so far among officials in the arid states of the Southwest and Midwest.

Most of the states' leaders have taken a position of active, but wary, interest in the plan, proposed in April by Sen. Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma and five fellow Senate Republicans.

Some officials say they will have to be convinced that any such program could accomplish enough to justify its costs. And even those who profess strong interest want several questions answered before they commit themselves — or any state money — to it.

The Bellmon proposal would provide $4 million annually for the next four years for demonstration weather-modification projects in Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Colorado, Oklahoma and Kansas, under the auspices of the federal Bureau of Reclamation.

An additional $3 million would be allocated for comparable programs in the Dakotas, Nebraska, Wyoming and Montana.

"Nobody knows more than I do the great amount of increase in carrying capacity of grazing land that results if there is an increase in rainfall," observed New Mexico Gov. Bruce King, who is also a rancher.

Gov. Jack Williams of Arizona, noting that as of late May Phoenix had had no rain in five months, said he wouldn't try to stop any experiment that might bring moisture to the state.

But any specific approach to the problem carries with it complications.

A principal concern is that bringing rain from the clouds by artificial means at one location may deprive farmers in another area of water that was naturally destined to fall on their lands.

One Kansas official who asked to remain unnamed said of the Bellmon plan, "We're not convinced we want it, but we're scared they'll steal our water if we're not."

King expressed the view that any broad weather-modification program should extend to several states "so we can monitor and see if we're robbing Peter to pay Paul."

Several state leaders, however, are concerned about the role the federal government might take in such a program.

Harry P. Burleigh, executive director of the Texas Water Development Board, said his agency "would be interested in such a program provided control would remain with the individual states as prescribed by their statutes."

"It is ... my firm belief that the individual states should retain their sovereignty in the field of weather modification and not abandon their rights and duties to the federal government."

A possible interstate weather-modification compact that might obviate federal involvement was discussed at an eight-state meeting called by Oklahoma Gov. David Hall April 7.

Tom Ten Eyck, Colorado's director of natural resources, said his state was happy to participate in the negotiations, but added: "We are a long way from anything realistic."

Another concern is the possible side effects of cloud seeding, such as freak storms or flooding rains.

The Bellmon bill would authorize the secretary of the interior to consider damage claims stemming from the weather-modification projects, setting a $25,000 limit on each claim without special authorization by Congress.

The bill also argues, "The science of weather modification has been developed and proven to a degree that predictable and beneficial results can be achieved by augmenting precipitation an average of from 10 to 30 per cent."

Williams noted, on the other hand, that limited cloud-seeding operations in Arizona last year brought "questionable" results. "The initial report indicated it caused a lot of rainfall, but that was revised downward and I don't think any experts can really say what the results were."

James A. Power Jr. of the Kansas Water Resources Department took an even more skeptical view: "In my opinion, producing additional rain is feasible under certain specific conditions. On the high plains, at this point, it's very questionable whether it's feasible."

"You are very limited in the amount of rain clouds that are available on the high plains. Evidence is that you'd get the clouds only four or five times a year, with a 50-50 chance of producing any more precipitation than you'd get anyway. The question becomes: Do the odds justify the expense?"

Clean Air Hope By Director

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Harvey Shell, acting director of Missouri's Air Conservation Commission, is optimistic about the state's newly passed clean air law. He contends that the bill will "take away some, if not all, the deficiencies found by the Environmental Protection Agency earlier Wednesday."

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has not yet signed the bill, however.

Contacted in Little Rock, Ark., Shell said he thought most of the criticism of Missouri's plans to implement the federal Clean Air Act were the result of "lack of communication" with federal authorities. He said they had not had time to review the new Missouri law before criticism was voiced Wednesday.

Shell said the state Clean Air Commission is to meet June 14 in St. Louis and the report from EPA will be discussed at that time.

Shell said a full-time staff of four in his office worked from Aug. 18, 1971, until Jan. 31, 1972, to outline the plans for EPA. They worked closely with federal representatives and were told Missouri was on the right course.

"Frankly," Shell said, "I am not so excited about the few deficiencies ... I am happy that is all they found."

Carl Rowan Veteran Diplomat Sees New Russia

WASHINGTON — "The old gray bear ain't what she used to be" might be the song of some of those returning from the historic summit conference in Moscow.

Rowan

The Soviet and American leaders reached agreements in the fields of arms limitation, space exploration, medical research and civility on the high seas. They garlanded all this with a declaration that the two super powers will "do their utmost to avoid military confrontations and to prevent the outbreak of nuclear war."

Soviet experts and scholars surely will cogitate for months over what it all means.

It is significant that at this time Foreign Policy magazine should carry an article by Prof. George F. Kennan, the man who influenced profoundly this country's attitudes and policies toward Russia 25 years ago with his celebrated article, "The Sources of Soviet Conduct." Kennan, who then was head of the State Department's policy planning staff, has been credited as the architect of the U.S. policy of "firm" containment of Soviet expansionist tendencies.

Kennan now says there has been "a very considerable mellowing of Soviet power." He adds that "the Soviet-American conflict has been largely removed geographically from the Eurasian land mass and relegated to control of the high seas and the fantasy world of nuclear weaponry... the anti-American propaganda and the competition with the United States for favor and influence in the Third World continue, but this is more of a force of habit than a policy, and the few successes achieved to date have come from American mistakes far more than Soviet brilliance. 'World revolution' has simply faded out of the picture, as a concrete aim of Soviet foreign policy."

Kennan does concede that Moscow shows signs of "disturbing adventurism" in the Middle East where they seem to desire "to gain total control over this area and to exclude every form of western influence."

Considering this, and the so-far-unrenounced policy of supporting "wars of liberation," to what extent can we accept these new Moscow accords as evidence of a new Soviet Union uninterested in "world revolution"?

How seriously, for example, should we take that declaration of principles committing both the U. S. and the Soviet Union to "settle differences by peaceful means"?

The Nixon administration purports to take it on face value. "We assume that the Soviet leaders are serious people and that they would not sign such a document, in a rather solemn ceremony, if they did not have serious intentions," was the way Kissinger put it.

On the face of things, then, one might easily conclude that we are on the verge of warm and intimate relations with the Soviets.

Let me quote here, at length, from Kennan's analysis, for he throws forth some theories and generalizations about Soviet leaders that recommend caution rather than euphoria:

"The United States would do well not to indulge itself in unreal hopes for intimacy with either the Soviet regime or the Soviet population. There are deeply-rooted traits in Soviet psychology — some of old-

Russian origin, some of more recent Soviet provenance — that would rule this out. Chief among these, in my opinion, are the congenital disregard of the truth, the addiction to propagandistic exaggeration, distortion, and falsehood, the habitual foulness of mouth in official utterance.

"So pernicious has been the effect of 50 years of cynicism about the role of objective truth in political statement that one begins to wonder whether these Soviet leaders have not destroyed in themselves the power to distinguish truth from falsehood. The very vocabulary in which they have taught themselves to speak, politically, with its constant references to the American 'imperialists' and 'monopolists,' is confusing and offensive, and constitutes in itself a barrier to better international understanding.

"Add to this the hysterical preoccupation with espionage, the continued fear of foreigners... and one is obliged to recognize that it is simply unrealistic for Americans to look for any great intimacy, or even normalcy, as we understand it, of relations with the Soviet Union. As is also the case with China, though for somewhat different reasons, relations can be reasonably good, but they must also be reasonably distant; and the more distant they are, in a sense, the better they will be."

It is noteworthy that the Communist party newspaper Pravda warned in a front-page editorial that, whatever may have been achieved in the summit talks, the East-West ideological warfare will go on.

This means that efforts to reduce, or even wipe out, U.S. influence and prestige in the Middle East, South Asia and other parts of the world will also continue.

The greatest achievement of the Moscow meetings may be the support they lend to Kennan's thesis of 25 years ago: that U.S. differences with the Russians are not the sort that can be resolved only through war — that somewhere between intimacy, which is impossible, and a gruesome war "there is a middle ground of peaceful coexistence."

When we remember how Washington regarded "peaceful coexistence" as a naively treasonous phrase only 15 years ago, we become aware of the fact that the Russians may today be scratching their heads asking to what extent the Americans really have changed.

Farm Costs Outrun Income Gains Made

The Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City has officially told farmers what they already know—they are still spending more money than they are taking in.

In the June edition of its Monthly Review, the bank reports that while farm income reached $51.6 billion last year—almost double the 1950 figure—it wasn't enough to offset rising production costs.

This took 73 cents out of every dollar of farm income last year, compared to 59 cents in 1950.

In commenting on farm trends today, the Federal Reserve Bank notes that agriculture is in the midst of not one but two "revolutions." In addition to the technological revolution, there is one in farm business management.

Today's successful farmer must be skilled in marketing, purchasing, accounting and credit management, in addition to being a good organizer and employer and knowing agronomy and livestock nutrition.

"Farming is no longer simply a 'way of life,' but it is a complex business requiring a wide range of managerial skills," the report notes.

Obtaining such skills exacts a price, however—the increasing demise of the family farm. Where 15.3 per cent of the nation's population lived on farms in 1950, today that has shrunk to 4.8 per cent. Corporation farming continues to grow, with its potential for monopoly abuse.

The nationwide decline in the numbers of farms can be seen in Pettis County, where the total shrank by 91 between 1964 and 1969, from 1,747 to 1,656.

The hard economic facts of life of farming promise more of the same, as costs of equipment, land and livestock continue to go up, further aggravating the cost-price squeeze for the small operator.

TWO UPPERS AND A DOWNER

Merry-Go-Round

Celler Tends Shop For a Conglomerate

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The venerable, 84-year-old dean of the House, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., has become a bit careless about promoting his pocketbook interests in Congress.

For 50 years, he has shuffled papers and switched nameplates to separate his law practice from his congressional actions. But this hasn't prevented him apparently, from tending the cash register of a multi-million-dollar conglomerate on Capitol Hill.

The conglomerate, Fischbach and Moore, does electrical work for power plants, industrial facilities, office buildings and other installations. It has received government contracts for a variety of projects, ranging from the FBI's vast new headquarters in Washington to anti-ballistic missile sites in North Dakota.

Repeatedly, Celler has put his power and prestige on the line in favor of projects that would benefit Fischbach and Moore. In promoting these projects, however, he hasn't mentioned that he has a financial stake in the company. He has served, off and on, as a director, and his law firm does legal work for the company.

There was a big brouhaha in 1960s, for example, over Consolidated Edison's construction of a nuclear generating plant at Buchanan, N.Y., and a hydroelectric plant at Cornwall, N.Y. Celler rose to the defense of Con Ed.

"The Cornwall plant," he declared, "has been attacked as an invasion of the scenic beauty of the Hudson... I have grave doubts as to whether or not there will be any invasion of the beauty of the Hudson. Nor is scenic beauty a sacred cow to be worshipped at all and any cost."

As for those who opposed the nuclear plant, Celler snorted: "These are the same skeptics who, in the 15th century, warned Columbus not to set out on his voyage to India which finally led him to America. These are the same skeptics who, in 1888, said the Brooklyn Bridge would fall down. These are the same skeptics that denigrated Kitty Hawk and flying machines, and these are the same skeptics who scoff at our efforts to reach the moon."

Celler omitted the fact that Con Ed had contracted with Fischbach and Moore to do the electrical work.

In 1969, Celler helped rally a close House vote in favor of the anti-ballistic missile system. "The gamble is too great, the awesome risk too much to bear," if the ABM system is not constructed, he told the House gravely.

He neglected to mention that his favorite conglomerate would help with the construction.

Again in 1971, Celler supported the controversial $250 million loan to Lockheed Corp. "I think Lockheed is worth saving!" he cried. He pointed out that "in my own state, there are suppliers on subcontracts involving over $67.5 million."

He discreetly didn't mention that Fischbach and Moore was one of the subcontractors.

Celler has voted for military construction that included electrical contracts from Fischbach and Moore. As House Judiciary Chairman, Celler also has jurisdiction over the FBI which, perhaps coincidentally, awarded Fischbach and Moore the electrical contract for the new J. Edgar Hoover building.

All the while, Celler has put on a great show of abstaining, in the name of ethics, from handling private law cases before the federal government. What he has done for ethics, however, is required by law. It happens to be a federal violation for congressmen to take fees in federal cases.

The door to Celler's law layout displays two signs. One identifies the firm of Weisman, Celler, Allan, Spett and Sheinberg. The other omits Celler's name. All cases involving the government are assigned to the firm without his name.

A prospective client might have difficulty, however, in distinguishing between the two firms. Both have the same telephone number. Indeed, they share furniture and fixtures as well as phones. While they keep separate books and bank accounts, the same staff is used by both firms.

Footnote: The kindly Celler told us he had been guilty of no conflicts and would swear so "on a stack of Bibles." Our charges, he said, were "contemptuously false." When we compared his past statements with the Fischbach and Moore contracts, he insisted that he had been unaware of any connection.

Running Mates — Sen. George McGovern has told campaign aides that, if he wins the Democratic nomination, he won't choose any of the top presidential contenders for a running mate. His first choice, if he could get him, would be Sen. Ted Kennedy. Other possibilities he has mentioned: Florida's Gov. Reuben Askew, Illinois' Sen. Adlai Stevenson, Indiana's Sen. Birch Bayh and Idaho's Sen. Frank Church. Sen. Hubert Humphrey, in contrast, has indicated he would like McGovern as a running mate.

Harlem Hero — Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., worried about drug addiction in his Harlem district, has privately asked Central Intelligence Director Richard Helms for 10 studies the CIA has made on worldwide drug routes to the U.S. When Helms declined, Rangel served notice he would invoke the Freedom of Information act.

Personal Slants

By DOUG KNEIBERT

What has happened to the St. Louis I used to know?

Back then, in the 40s and 50s, it was The City, a loud, colorful and exciting place you went once or twice a year to shop. For a small town boy, it was high adventure.

There was the toy department on the eighth floor of Famous-Barr; huge theaters with stuffed chairs; restaurants with four-page menus. And always the fast-paced sea of people, scurrying to thousands of jobs, appointments and business luncheons, each contributing to the throbbing pulse-beat of the city.

The hotel we always stayed at was what used to be called moderately genteel. We knew and were known by the manager, the doorman, even the bellboys. It was the place you stayed when you went to St. Louis, and the hotel invited your loyalty by adding a personal touch.

At night you might go window shopping, a special treat at Christmas time, when department store windows would be alive with mechanical Santa's helpers. There was no thought of your own personal safety.

Cut to 1972. As my train pulls into Union Station an hour and a half late, it constitutes the only activity in the yawning structure. A handful of people gravitate to the gate; most look like pass riders.

If you wish to stay in downtown St. Louis today, you needs must go to the riverfront, where a new development has risen beside the Mississippi anchored by Busch Stadium, which dominates the area like a latter-day Roman Coliseum.

But even here the forces of progress and decay are in precarious balance. The splendid Spanish Pavilion, transplanted stone by stone to St. Louis from the New York World's Fair, stands vacant.

The hotel, of which I had such happy memories, still stands, but in growing decrepitude, sans doorman. Its once famous restaurant is closed. If you want a room now, I hear, you carry your own bags up.

Leave the heart of the riverfront district and you step back in time and assessed valuation into decay and neglect. A jungle of bars, porno shops and abandoned storefronts stands on the edge, as if patiently awaiting the hour to continue its forward march.

At night the downtown is nearly vacant, a couple here or there quickly scurrying to the safety of their hotel. The mercury vapor silence is broken periodically by a wailing siren. Police cars endlessly prowl the deserted streets.

St. Louis, despite its glitter and brave front, is dying. It is dying of the same sort of urban cancer that is affecting all of our great cities in one degree or another. And as yet, no one has come up with a cure.

Mrs. Bill Luther, 714 East Fifth, says the fight against the last school levy increase was not hers alone. She says she was helped by 140-150 ("more or less") individuals who chipped in to pay the costs of the ads.

As for reports that she was simply a front for wealthy interests opposed to the tax hike, she denied that too. "I don't know any rich people," Mrs. Luther said.

We've got some careful readers out there, and one of them called me to point out an inconsistency in our reports about that Cadillac President Nixon gave Leonid Brezhnev.

In our AP report Tuesday it was stated that the Cadillac was donated by General Motors. But in a UPI wire photo we ran Wednesday, we passed the burden on to the taxpayers.

The truth is that GM picked up the tab, and not you-know-who. They can afford it.

Vibrator Won't Aid Weight Loss

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have read somewhere that it is dangerous to sit too close to the TV and I am concerned because my grandchildren constantly sit in front of the TV set. Is this hard on their eyes?

Dear Reader — The American Optometric Assn. recently published a little pamphlet on this and they point out that under proper conditions the TV isn't as much a strain on the eyes as close work such as reading or sewing. Further they state it doesn't hurt the child to sit up close, but he will be better off sitting at a distance of at least five times the width of the screen. This provides a sharper and better defined picture. Normal room lighting and avoiding glare is all right for the lighting conditions and it is good to have the television set in direct line with the sight to prevent assuming uncomfortable body positions which can be tiring. Children who persist in sitting up close to the TV set are sometimes nearsighted and probably need an eye examination.

There has been at least one well-documented bad effect from children watching TV and that is in the children who do it persistently eliminating normal physical activity and play. They become so inactive that they get weak and their muscles tire easily and they experience a constant sensation of fatigue, just like the office worker who doesn't get any physical activity. Children who have headaches and excessive fatigue were found to have the TV problem — too much TV and not enough physical activity. The treatment for that is fairly obvious.

Dear Dr. Lamb — All I need to lose is about seven or eight pounds. It seems I can't do that even with watching what I eat. I never eat sweets or use sugar in my tea or coffee. I have been told that a belt vibrator will give me enough exercise to use up the calories I take in. Could you tell me how many calories a day I would burn up with about 20 minutes on the best vibrator.

Dear Reader — You will be lucky if you burn up any calories on the vibrator. The only way that one burns up calories is by doing muscular exercise or something that will actually increase metabolism of the body. Vibrators really don't do either. They make a lot of people feel better and sometimes they help with toning up muscles.

Why don't you just add 30 minutes of walking a day to your regular physical activity and be careful not to add anything else to your diet. If you just walk 30 minutes a day every day, the probabilities are that your seven or eight pounds will be gone in a year's time. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

SPEED READING COURSE TO BEGIN IN SEDALIA AREA

Arrangements have been made to conduct a 21-hour course in speed reading. The course is open to anyone above the age of 13 and guarantees every graduate a reading speed over 1,000 words per minute and with at least 15 per cent increase in comprehension.

After the seven week program a person can read any average length book in less than an hour and understand it better. In addition to speed reading the course also emphasizes improved study techniques, better test taking skills, and increased concentration and retention abilities.

The course requires a person to attend one class per week on the evening of their choice for those who would like more information, without obligation to enroll, a series of FREE one-hour orientation lectures have been scheduled.

These meetings are free to the public and the course will be explained in complete detail including entrance requirements, classroom procedures, tuition, class schedule and location. You need to attend only one of the meetings whichever is most convenient for you. These free one-hour orientations will be held as follows: Wednesday, June 7, 7:30-8:30 p.m.; Thursday, June 8, 7:30-8:30 p.m.; Friday, June 9, 7:30-8:30 p.m.

A final meeting Monday, June 12, 7:30-8:30 p.m.

These meetings will be held at Holiday Inn, Sedalia, Mo. Persons under 18 should be accompanied by a parent.

NCAA Track Finals

UCLA, USC Start Off on Right Foot

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — It may be a UCLA-Southern California showdown for the national track and field championship. At least that's how UCLA coach Jim Bush sizes up the 51st annual NCAA meet after its opening session. "We're hanging in tough and certainly are not out of it—anything can happen," Bush said after the three-day meet got under way Thursday on the University of Oregon campus. "The way I see it, it will be UTEP (University of Texas-El Paso), Oregon, USC and ourselves," he said. "I think that USC and UCLA look the strongest—after all, Oregon lost a lot of points today."

UCLA, the defending champion, and USC, Oregon and UTEP went into the meet as favorites. After Thursday's qualifying, Southern Cal was rated a slight favorite, although Bush and a number of other coaches disagreed.

John Smith of UCLA, the 440-yard run winner last year, finished first in his heat of the 400 meters in 45.9.

Oregon and UTEP both were hurt in the qualifying, but Southern Cal, which won the Pacific-8 Conference title, moved sprinters Don Quarrie, Willie Deckard and Leon Brown into today's semifinals of the 100 and 200. The Trojans' 400 relay team featuring that trio also qualified.

Deckard's challengers in the 100 today included Ivory Crockett of Southern Illinois, the 1970 AAU champion at 100 yards, who finished No. 1 in his heat of the 100-meter run in a wind-aided 9.9 seconds.

One of UTEP's setbacks came in the 100 where Harold Williams was eliminated after a series of false starts. The Miners also lost Steve Williams, their standout freshman sprinter, who aggravated a muscle pull.

UTEP, banking on its sprinters for a shot at the national title, did qualify defending champion Harrington Jackson and Errol Stewart in the 100. Fernando DeLaCorda in the 800, and Harold Williams and Jackson in the 200. The Miners' 440 relay team also qualified.

Today's schedule called for finals in the decathlon, long jump, hammer, shot put, 100 meters, 10,000 meters and 110 meter high hurdles. There were semifinals planned in five other events.

As in previous Olympic years, the 1972 meet is being measured almost entirely in metric distances.

Lakers To Name General Manager

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers, champions of the National Basketball Association, were to name a new general manager today.

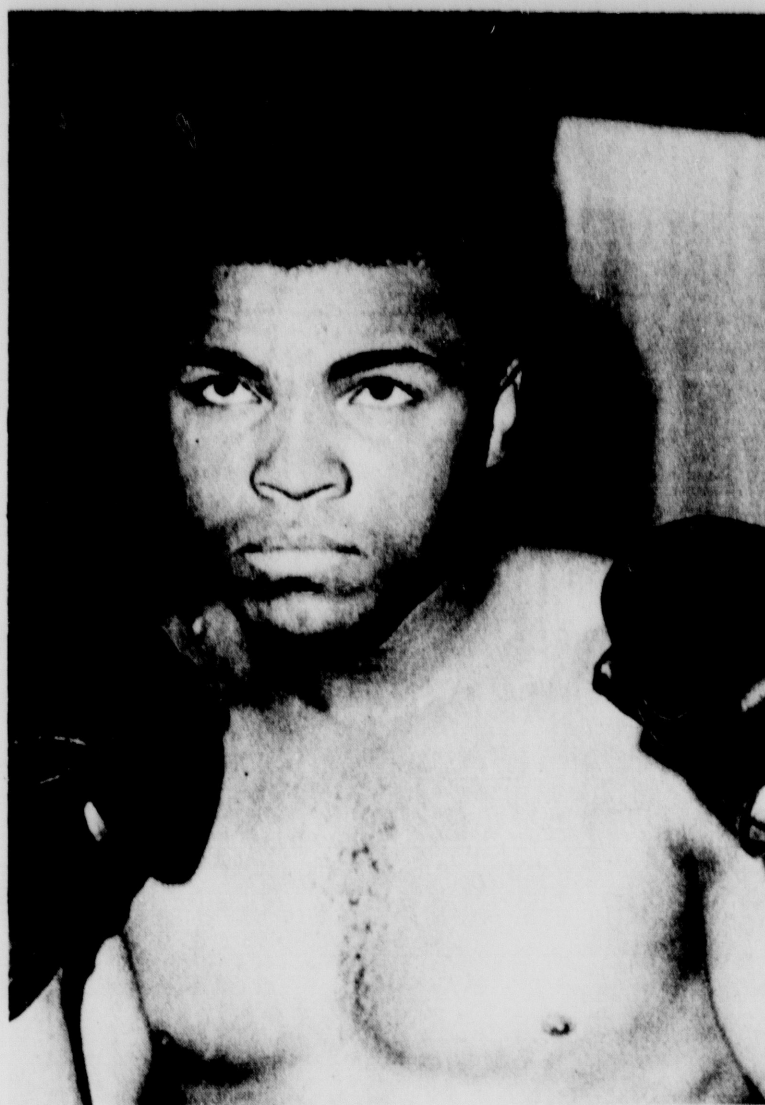

Fred Schaus, the Lakers' former coach who had been their general manager the past five seasons, resigned May 16 to return to the collegiate ranks as coach at Purdue.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Jack Dolph of the American Basketball Association announced today he has resigned effective at the end of his three-year contract in October.

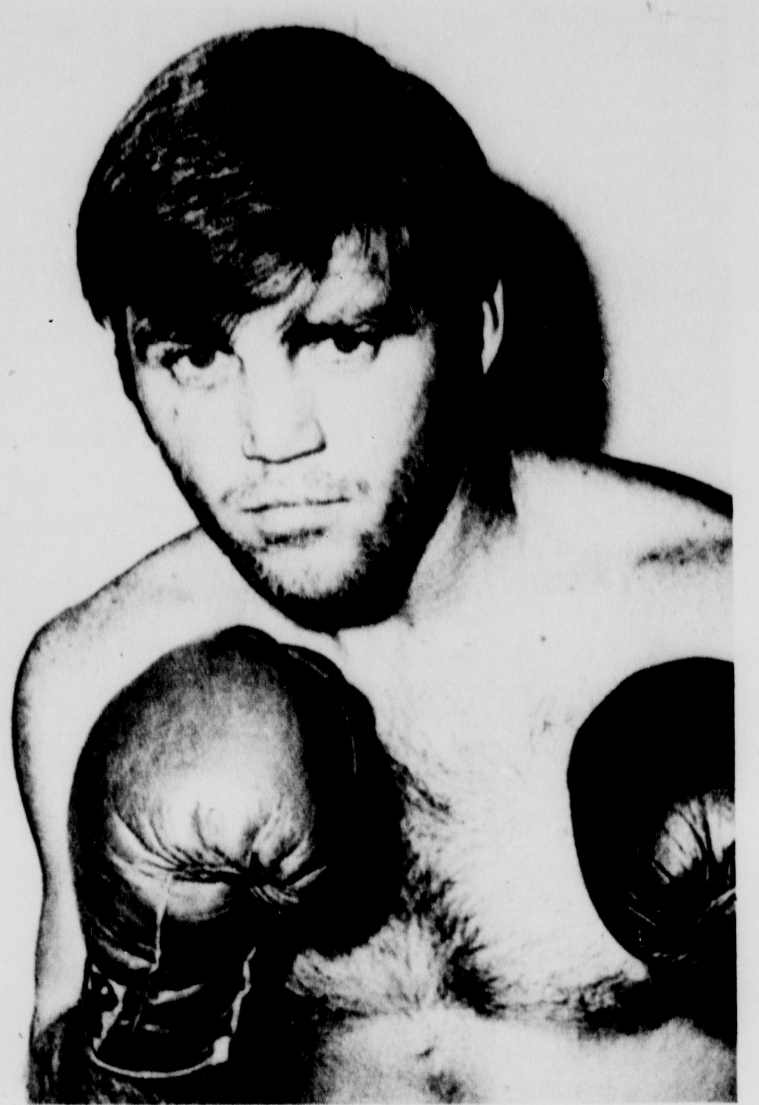

Dolph said he was leaving because he saw the future — a merger between the ABA and National Basketball Association in which NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy will be the single commissioner.

"I believe that a merger between the two leagues is only a matter of time," Dolph said in his announcement.

Ali, Quarry Clash June 27

Muhammad Ali, left, and Jerry Quarry will meet in a 12-round return bout at the Convention Center in Las Vegas it was announced in New York, Thursday. Their bout will be part of a doubleheader, which also features a 15-round world light-heavyweight championship contest between title-holder Bob Foster and challenger Mike Quarry. Mike is Jerry's younger brother.

Long Ball Helps Royals End 5-game Losing Skid

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Al Fitzmorris has overcome his fear of Harmon Killebrew and Richie Scheinblum is overcoming a conspicuous notation in the Kansas City Royals' press guide.

Fitzmorris hurled four no-hit innings in relief and Scheinblum cracked a pinch-hit, two-run homer in the eighth inning Thursday as the Royals downed the Minnesota Twins 5-3.

The press book says of Scheinblum, "He has hit his only major league home run on the same day man landed on the moon, July 20, 1969."

Well, they can no longer say that about Richie, whose clout Thursday was his fourth of the season.

"Before this season," said Scheinblum, "I don't think I ever played more than six or seven games in a row. Pinch hitting? I learned how to pinch hit with Cleveland."

"I was 0 for 34 at the start of the 1969 season and 18 of those were as a pinch hitter. But I finished the season with the second best pinch hitting record in the league that year (.259)."

Scheinblum had an outstanding season with Denver of the American Association last year, swatting 29 homers and hitting a league-leading .388.

The Royals purchased him from the Texas Rangers last October. He came into 1972 with only 170 major league games under his belt. He has played in 25 games this year with three hits in eight pinch-hit appearances.

Fitzmorris came into the game in the sixth inning, trailing 3-0. Lou Piniella, after Steve Hovley's single, and Ed Kirkpatrick hit back-to-back homers to tie the game in the sixth.

Was there one batter he worries about more than any other?

"Harmon Killebrew has always given me trouble—he has five or six homers off me," said Fitzmorris, now 1-3.

But Fitzmorris didn't have much to worry about—he thought Killebrew didn't start. But when Manager Bill Rigney changed pitchers in the seventh, out strolled Killebrew to take first base.

"I liked him right where he was," said Fitzmorris, who said he uttered a few well-chosen words when Killebrew took his position. But in the eighth inning, when Killebrew did step to the plate, Fitzmorris, induced the Twins' slugger to ground out.

Eric Soderholm's two-run homer, his second in two games, in the second and Cesar Tovar's run-scoring single in the fifth produced the Twins' runs.

"Maybe this is what we need to turn us around," said Royals' Manager Bob Lemon, whose team is in the West cellar 11½ games behind Oakland. "We've had the pitching and hitting, but not the runs."

Kemp Richardson Into Quarterfinals

BULLETIN

SANDWICH, England (AP) — Alan Thirlwell, veteran Briton, beat Californian Kemp Richardson at the 20th hole today and ended the American challenge in the British Amateur Golf Championship.

Richardson, lanky 26-year-old stockbroker from Huntington Beach, was the only American left in the quarterfinals.

Michael Bonallack, bidding to win the title for the sixth time, defeated his British Walker Cup teammate Rodney Foster 3 and 2.

SANDWICH, England (AP) — If you are a scratch golfer and your wife an airline hostess who can get you cheap transatlantic travel, why not take your vacation playing in the British Amateur Championship?

That's just what Kemp Richardson, a 6-foot 2-inch stockbroker from Huntington Beach, Calif., did. Today he's in the quarterfinals.

"What a lark," Richardson said. "I came for the trip really. I tried twice to qualify for the American amateur and failed each time. I never expected to do as well as this over here."

Thursday, over the tricky 6,633-yard, par 34-36-70 Royal St. George's course—unlike anything American players know at home—Richardson humbled two well-rated British players.

Of the 43 Americans who set out in this tournament, he is the only one to reach the last eight.

In the morning, Richardson, shooting six birdies, shook British hopes by downing Michael King, a seeded player, 2 and 1. In the afternoon he won 3 and 1 against Peter Bucher, a Scot.

Thursday afternoon America still had two hopes alive in the tournament—Richardson and Walker Cupper Dick Siderow of Westport, Conn.

They both work for the same firm of stockbrokers, Eastman Dillon, with Richardson in the Long Beach office and Siderow in New York. But they never met until they came face to face in the clubhouse here this week.

Siderow bowed out to Rodney Foster, British Walker Cup star, by one hole in the fifth round.

Today Richardson faced Alan Thirlwell of Britain. They only two seeds left out of the original eight are Foster and his 1971 Walker Cup captain Michael Bonallack, and they were paired against each other. Bonallack is seeking to win this title for the sixth time.

Both the other quarterfinals are all British affairs.

Greg Wright of Windsor, Ont., gained an early lead in harness racing victories this year by winning 63 races the first two months.

Big-Eighter Runs First

Andrew Pettus of Oklahoma, crosses the finish line in the 400 meter dash of the decathlon as he won the event in a time of :48.70, Thursday at the UCAA Track and Field Championships on the University of Oregon track. Coming in behind Pettus are Roger George, right, of Fresno State, and Phil Wash of Washington State.

Dog-gone Shame

Agony of Defeat

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — There's always more laughter on the first day of the NCAA track and field championships because there are no losers—except for those who fail to make the finals.

The laughter was there late Thursday when the proverbial dog-on-the-field showed up to literally dog the 5,000-meter runners attempting to qualify for Saturday's finals. The floppy-eared critter was finally chased off the track after a good run down backstretch and around the turn.

But the disappointments, few though they were, stood out in this 51st annual meet.

—Local favorite Todd Lathers, Oregon's 8:40.4 steeplechaser last year, ran dead last in his heat and failed to make the finals.

—Cary Feldmann, Washington's defending javelin champion, threw only 225-7 for 17th and didn't qualify.

—Fred Samara of Penn and Mike Hill of Colorado, pre-meet decathlon favorites, dropped out with injuries.

—Harold Williams of Texas-El Paso was disqualified for two false starts in the 100 and teammate Steve Williams reentered a groin muscle and is out for the meet.

—Herb Washington, Michigan State's Big 10 champ in the 100, failed to make the finals in that event.

But for sick humor, one has to point to UCLA's famed fumbling foursome, the quarter-mile relay team.

In four consecutive NCAA championship meets, the Bruin quartet has failed to make the finals because of the same reason—a dropped baton. How does coach Jim Bush explain it?

"Poor coaching, I guess. I have to laugh. I'm tired of getting mad. There's nothing else to say."

The Bruins still have their fast mile relay team in the title chase here, with Benny Brown and John Smith on the final two legs. Thus, if this meet comes down to the final event, holding onto the stick will be UCLA's main chore.

Feldmann, one of America's top hopes for a javelin medal at the Munich Olympics, said after his poor showing.

"This is the first time I've thrown in seven weeks. It's the same problem I've had before and so I know that if I can't compete as well as everyone else, there's no reason to get upset. Right now, I'm thinking only about the Olympic Trials."

Jane Blalock Counters LPGA Suspension With Huge Lawsuit

ATLANTA (AP) — Jane Blalock, one of the most promising young players on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, countered a one-year suspension Thursday by filing a $5 million lawsuit against the organization.

The suspension "for actions inconsistent with the code of ethics of the organization" was announced here Thursday by E. M. "Bud" Erickson, LPGA executive director, only hours before two New York attorneys filed the suit on Miss Blalock's behalf in U.S. District Court.

The suit also seeks a court order to permit Miss Blalock to compete in tournaments while the case is being resolved. Judge Charles A. Moyer Jr. scheduled a hearing on that motion for 10 a.m. today in his chambers.

Miss Blalock, a 26-year-old blue-eyed blonde from Portsmouth, N.H., is the leading money winner on the LPGA tour this year with $32,886.

In only her fourth year on the tour, she already has won honors as rookie of the year in 1969 and most improved golfer in 1970 and 1971.

Miss Blalock is asking for damages of not less than $1 million, to be trebled as provided by law. She also seeks $1 million for compensatory damages and $1 million for punitive damages.

Erickson said the suspension was taken after Miss Blalock met with the executive committee three times in the last 10 days. He said she was advised of the suspension Tuesday night.

Miss Blalock wasn't available for comment on the matter and Erickson declined to comment on her lawsuit. "We will answer the complaint at the proper time," he said.

Erickson said Miss Blalock was disqualified after the second round of the Blue Grass Invitation at Louisville May 20 "for violation of replacing of ball on green improperly." He said she signed a scorecard for a 74 rather than a 76 and was subject to disqualification for signing an incorrect scorecard.

Violation of the rule regarding the spotting of a ball on a green calls for a two shot penalty.

Erickson said she was told by the LPGA she was being fined and placed on probation when she was disqualified at Louisville.

"At that time other things came out that furthered the inquiry," Erickson said, without elaborating.

Into Second-place Tie

'Big Red' Use Astro-oil To Fuel Machine

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Break up the Cincinnati Reds ... and wake up the Houston Astros.

The revitalized "Big Red Machine" continued to roll Thursday night, mashing faltering Houston 10-3 and moving into a second place tie with the Astros in the National League West.

"It's hard to beat us when we're hitting," Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson said in a masterful understatement after his club swept a four-game series at the Astrodome with an awesome power display.

Hal McRae's grand slam home run featured an 11-hit attack that also included homers by Johnny Bench and Tony Perez in the spacious park not especially known as a hitter's paradise. The production gave the Reds a total of 39 runs in the four games.

"Johnny has gotten himself started again and Tony's hand is much better," said Anderson, pointing to Bench's four circuit shots in the last three contests and Perez's availability after an injury that knocked him out of 12 games.

The loss was the sixth straight for the Astros, and the sixth victory for the Reds in seven games. The outcome of Thursday night's contest left both clubs 1 1/2 games behind front-running Los Angeles after the Dodgers dropped a 5-2 decision to the San Francisco Giants.

In the National League's other games, the New York Mets beat the Philadelphia Phillies 6-1 and the Chicago Cubs turned back the St. Louis Cardinals 7-3.

American League results: Kansas City 5, Minnesota 3; Milwaukee 9 New York 8 in 12 innings; Cleveland 1, Detroit 0 and Boston 7, Baltimore 1.

Home runs by Cesar Cedeno and Doug Rader helped Jerry Reuss off to a 3-0 lead as the left-hander struck out seven over the first four innings. Then Cincinnati's "Machine" began hitting on all cylinders.

Steve Stone pitched a five-hitter and rookie Gary Maddox delivered a two-run single in a three-run fourth inning to pace San Francisco's victory. Singles by Tito Fuentes and Ed Goodson started the rally off Bill Singer. Fuentes eventually came home on Chris Speier's sacrifice fly before Maddox drilled his game-winning hit to right.

Rusty Staub drilled a three-run homer in the first inning, giving pitcher Jim McAndrew ample working margin, as New York beat Philadelphia and improved its first-place lead in the East to five games over idle Pittsburgh.

The loss was the 15th in the last 16 games for Philadelphia and plunged the Phillies deeper in the East basement.

Ron Santo, Jim Hickman, and J.C. Martin smashed extra-base hits during a six-run rally in the first inning that powered Chicago past St. Louis. Bill Hands benefited from the outburst to win his fourth game in five decisions.

Sailing of the Rose

Cincinnati's Pete Rose slides hard into Houston shortstop Roger Metzger to break up a potential out in the fifth inning of Thursday night's game in the Astrodome. Rose jarred the ball loose and went on to third on Metzger's error. Umpire Dick Stello watched the play closely. (UPI)

Siebert Remains Tough on O's

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sonny Siebert isn't much on bird-watching, but nothing lifts his spirits like the sight of the Baltimore Orioles.

The 35-year-old right-hander of the Boston Red Sox winged the Orioles 7-1 Thursday for his 16th victory in 20 career decisions against the team that has won the last three American League pennants.

Siebert took a so-so 3-2 record and bloated 4.47 earned run average into the game but throttled the Birds on seven hits and one unearned run and reduced his ERA to 3.82.

"You look at his statistics and they're not that great," said Billy Hunter, a Baltimore coach. "But when he sees the Orioles' uniforms he doesn't worry too much."

Elsewhere, Cleveland nipped Detroit 1-0 as Gaylord Perry became the first nine-game winner in the majors. Kansas City downed Minnesota 5-3 and Milwaukee edged the New York Yankees 9-8 in 12 innings. Oakland, the Chicago White Sox, California and Texas were not scheduled.

National League scores: New York Mets 6, Philadelphia 1; Chicago Cubs 7, St. Louis 3; San Francisco 5, Los Angeles 2; Cincinnati 10, Houston 3; Pittsburgh, Montreal, Atlanta and San Diego had the day off.

Rico Petrocelli staked Siebert to a 2-0 lead in the first inning with a two-run single off Dave McNally and Carlton Fisk slammed a two-run homer in the second, his third in the last four games.

Cleveland got Perry the only run he needed against Detroit in the third inning when Eddie Leon walked, Perry sacrificed and Tom McCraw singled, one of only three hits off loser Joe Coleman.

The Tigers nipped Perry for seven hits, two each in the first and fifth, but the tall right-hander worked out of each threat and ended the Indians' seven-game losing streak. Their last victory was on May 23—a shutout by Perry, match.

What Did Giants Say to Mays: 'Goodbye' or Good Riddance?

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO — (NEA) — A lot of drivel has been coming out of San Francisco in recent days about the trading of Willie Mays, up to and including Mayor Joseph Alioto's ridiculous doggerel that "the mighty Stoneham has struck out."

The maudlin eulogies to the figurative passing of Willie fugged the fact that for at least a couple of years Willie has been a pain in the butt to the San Francisco Giants. Bluntly, they could no longer afford him. If you want to applaud Horace Stoneham for his altruism in finding Willie a home, with the New York Mets, where he can live for the next few years in the style to which he has become accustomed, then temper it with the admission Horace had also run down his business to the point where Willie had become a drag.

Let's make one point clear. Willie Mays was a great, great ballplayer — and maybe in a spurt or two, even at the age of 41, he can justify his hefty salary.

A great humanitarian, he isn't.

That's why he wasn't worth keeping around after his active playing days, despite the fact he has been the living symbol of the Giants for 21 years. (For comparison, Stan Musial, who occupied a similar niche in St. Louis, maintained an alliance with the Cardinals which persists and is a senior vice-president of the club, dispensing good will.)

"The only mistake Stoneham made," says a man close to the Giants, "was not trading him three years ago." When Willie was a lot more marketable as a ballplayer — remember, he hasn't hit 300 for half a dozen seasons.

The Giants have been notorious for padding their payroll with old-timers. Cronism and nostalgic largesse have been the modus agendi for the Stoneham regime. Willie didn't qualify because there was no way to justify $75,000 a year as a gesture of good cheer. Willie in recent years hasn't been spreading any. He's been more sullen and withdrawn than anything else in his personal relations.

The resumed love affair of New York and Willie reminds me of a guy who runs into his old broad many years later and gets a titillating tug of passion, but soon he notices the wrinkles.

The effusive, ebullient "Say Hey" kid of the 1950s who played stickball and oozed joie de vivre hasn't really been revived. That's a journalistic infatuation. When Willie today acts like he's "home" and gushes sentimentality, it's an emotional parody because nothing's the same as it used to be. Not New York, not Willie. Only the money is better.

The media people who embraced the kid from Alabama — over the years he was more responsive to the visiting press from New York than he was to his own guys in San Francisco — have changed, too. They're younger and more probing and less rhapsodic. A peevish 41-year-old outfielder won't overwhelm them. When or if Willie turns petulant and complains about being tired or harassed, which was his pattern with the Giants, he'll be criticized.

An impression has been left that Willie was never embraced by San Francisco and therefore had his feelings hurt. Actually, he was in an adulatory climate, and his abilities as a ball player were never minimized. What happened was that Willie passed from adolescence into adulthood without a hitch as a performer but without corresponding growth as a public figure. He had some personal problems which made him more seclusive. He was increasingly sensitive to any critical comments. And he was a tough guy on his managers.

Willie went his own way, which was all right when he was best player of his time.

It wasn't all right when high inside fast balls began to slip by his fluttering bat.

It's a very unsentimental world we live in.

Eric Soderholm homered as Minnesota took an early 3-0 lead but the Royals caught up in the sixth when Steve Hovley singled and Lou Piniella and Ed Kirkpatrick hit successive home runs.

Milwaukee got home runs from George Scott, Billy Conigliaro, Joe Lahoud and John Felske but finally beat the Yankees when reliever Jim Roland issued four walks in the 12th inning.

The last pitch of the game on a 3-2 count to Rich Auerbach forced over the winning run and sent the Yanks into a frenzy. Roland charged plate umpire Bill Kunkel, waved the ball under his nose and then heaved it into the outfield.

Unless Earl Wagner and the United States Auto Club know something that I don't, Wagner may find himself in the same mess that Ernie Derr and Irv Janey are currently faced with by USAC.

Wagner, winner of Sunday's Sedalia Jaycees-International Motor Contest Association's sprint car race at the Missouri State Fairgrounds, is entered in the USAC sprint show, Saturday, at the Marion County Fairgrounds, Knoxville, Iowa.

Hurtubise May Quit USAC

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Add Jim Hurtubise's name to the list of drivers disgruntled with Saturday's Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Hurtubise was dropped from 16th to 23rd, and he's not happy about it. In fact, he says he may quit the U.S. Auto Club.

The popular driver was shoved down seven places because his racer was hauled across the infield to the pits after running out of fuel during the race.

"They let me drive 200 miles, nearly half the race," Hurtubise said by telephone from his North Tonawanda, N.Y., garage. "I think there is a lot of straightening out needed in a lot of places. If they think I'm out there for my health they are mistaken."

Hurtubise said he "nearly had a fist fight" with track attendants who gave him a tow.

Chief steward Harlan Fengler told drivers at the pre-race meeting any car stalled on the track would have to go around the course. Hurtubise said.

Attendants told him he couldn't go around and hauled him across the infield to the pits, where the car was refueled and returned to the race.

Derr and Janey were suspended last week by USAC's stock car director Bob Stroud last week for jumping out of USAC and running non-USAC sanctioned races.

Wagner, who was entered in the USAC stock car race held earlier this season at the Missouri State Fairgrounds, but did not show.

A disappointing crowd of only around 4,000 watched Sunday's annual Jaycees Memorial Classic, and the race committee is still trying to figure out just what it was that held down the usually large crowd. The 4,000 who watched the race, which included one of the finest scrambles for the top prize in the feature of any race in recent years, was about only half the number who normally turn out for the annual Memorial Day Weekend event.

Some feel that the "no coolers" phrase that appeared on all the advertising, the tickets and the pre-race information, was the strongest contributing factor that kept many away from the race.

Others said that they didn't like what the IMCA had to offer in the way of sprints, so they could have cared less who ran in the race.

There has been across the country, a considerable drop in attendance in sprint car racing, especially the IMCA variety.

It would probably be impossible to lay the blame on any one area, but certainly the ones that have been mentioned were all contributing factors.

Today, the Jaycees are still counting their losses. The Jaycees have in the past profited well from the race. Those profits are shuttled back into the community through the many worthy organizations they help support, making community the biggest loser, not really the Jaycees.

Rotary, Pepsi Win in Jr. BR

Rotary outlasted Sunrise Optimist, 9-8, and Pepsi-Cola raced past Western Auto, 16-10, in Thursday night's Junior Babe Ruth games in Centennial Park.

Rick McRoy, who was credited with the win in the opener for Rotary, smacked a two-run homer to aid his cause in the fourth inning. Jim Sanders was tagged with the loss.

Cliff Callis was the winning hurler for Pepsi-Cola. Randy Patrick was the loser.

Richards Losing Power?

AAU Meet Saturday

More than 1,000 boys and girls will assemble on the Jennie Jaynes Stadium field Saturday at 8:30 a.m. for the Amateur Athletic Union's Preliminary Track and Field qualifications.

Boys and girls through the age of 18 will be vying for spots in the June 10 Missouri State Championships, which is the last step toward the Missouri Valley AAU Championships, scheduled for June 24 in Salina, Kan., in the Junior Olympics program.

Five divisions for both the boys and the girls entered in the meet will see three persons qualifying in each event for the state finals.

Smith-Cotton High School coaches Joe Simones and Larry York will be in charge of the track and field events respectively, according to meet director Paul Klover.

A gold shoe will be awarded to the most outstanding boy and girl athlete in each division.

The meet is being sponsored by the S-M Sporting Goods Co.

If you want to overbid it behooves you to play the dummy very well and it also helps a lot if you can get your opponents to cooperate with you.

Here is a hand played by Mike Lawrence in the 1970 world championship. His two-heart overcall was nothing to sing songs about, but he still continued to game after Bob Hammann raised him to three.

West opened the queen of spades. East took his ace and led a small spade back. Mike was delighted to find his king holding but things didn't look at all good. He had lost one trick and still had two diamonds and a club to lose, not to mention the possibility of the queen of hearts scoring against him.

He needed a lot of, luck plus a mistake and it all worked out. He led a trump to dummy's king and played the three of clubs. East thought and thought and thought and finally came to the conclusion that Mike was trying to sneak a trick with the singleton king. He went up with the ace of clubs and might have beaten the hand by shifting to a diamond but he chose to lead the jack of spades in hopes of developing a trump trick.

Mike ruffed and when West failed to overruff, Mike's troubles were over. He took his king of clubs; led a diamond to dummy's ace; discarded one losing diamond on the queen of clubs; led trumps and conceded a diamond trick at the end.

Dramatist Finds Himself Suddenly on Top

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Jason Miller, who has suddenly zoomed up as the season's big playwriting find, believes drama is best when it preaches least, mirrors most. "The theater has been propaganda too long," he vigorously denies recent vanguard trends. And there's nothing wrong either with entertainment as part of the dynamics of theater. Such opinion may not endear the slim, intense actor-turned-author to some of the more articulate segments of the thespian community. Especially when he further brands plays aimed at filling audiences with guilt over race or other issues as "the worst theater of all."

But with critics who cheered, virtually unanimously, and with audiences that since have been jamming into Off-Broadway's Public Theater, Miller has demonstrated the vitality of his viewpoint.

The play arrived too late for Tony or Pulitzer prize consideration but was a cinch contender for Critics Circle recognition. "That Championship Season," the script stirring all the excitement, is a deceptively simple narrative about the 20th annual reunion of four men who as high school youths won the state basketball championship. Right now one of them is up for re-election as mayor.

The story unfolds, however, into an incisive accounting of the impulses, dislikes and tensions of middle class American life.

"Give the theater back to the people," says Miller in discussion of the work. "Let them see a reflection of themselves. Don't say because they're middle class they're not worth contemplating. Because what the hell is middle class anyway? Nobody knows."

Miller grew up in Scranton, Pa., the only child of an Irish Catholic family, attended St. Patrick's high school and Scranton University, a Jesuit institution.

In high school, he won a regional play contest with "The Winner," but by the time he finished college had decided upon an acting career.

"That Championship Season" was completed while he was in "The Odd Couple" at a Fort Worth restaurant-theater. The next thing he knew his agent had optioned it for a Broadway production. Shortly before that, another piece, "Nobody Hears a Broken Drum" had had a short, inliferous Off-Broadway run.

"I went through the whole Broadway scene with this," says Miller, like a man trying to forget. "Up there it's a whole different game. The landlord wants to know who the star is before you get a theater and pretty soon you've got the ushers casting the show."

"The trouble with star-casting a play like this is that you would throw the whole thing out of focus. It would have to be rewritten."

"Getting a play done anywhere is a miracle, but the miracle here is that I don't think we could have gotten the sort of ensemble work we achieved in that Broadway environment."

The sudden spotlight hasn't knocked him off balance, although he feels "every once in a while that I'm looking at a film."

With several plays in reserve already and other ideas stirring, Miller says, "I think I'll be able to cope."

Playwriting Find

Jason Miller stands on the stage of the New York Public Theater where his play, "That Championship Season" recently opened. Critics cheered, audiences are flocking in and Miller, actor-turned-author, has been hailed as the season's big playwriting find. He holds that drama should preach less, should show people a reflection of themselves — "and there's nothing wrong either with entertainment as part of the dynamics of theater." (AP)

Aroma of Tacoma Paper Company Symbol

By DOUG NINE
Associated Press Writer
TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Can a northwestern American city find happiness without the distinctive odor for which it has hung over it for 40 years?

Tax Relief Measure Is Sent to Senate

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A personal property tax-relief measure, which would eliminate the tax for farmers, has moved to the Illinois Senate after being approved by a wide margin in the lower chamber.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. James Nowlan, R-Toulon, would exempt all tangible personal property used "exclusively in cultivating or managing a farm or the business of farming."

Considered an Ogilvie administration bill, it is expected to receive a cool reception in the Senate, which has so far sent all of its personal property tax-relief legislation to a subcommittee.

"Farmers in Illinois pay higher taxes than any of their cohorts in the farm belt states," Nowlan, a candidate for lieutenant governor, told the House during the debate. The bill was passed 120-16.

Farmers have been crying for relief from the personal property tax for many years, but the only measure which has become law was later declared unconstitutional by the Illinois Supreme Court. That ruling is now before the U.S. Supreme Court.

The House also passed an accompanying measure which would appropriate $5 million to reimburse local taxing districts for money lost during the 1973 fiscal year in the event a personal property tax-relief measure is approved.

A native of Tacoma once said that when he was away for long, he missed the smell he had grown up with. A couple of enterprising country-western singers recorded a song a few years ago called "The Aroma of Tacoma."

The St. Regis Paper Co. has announced that the key ingredient of the unmistakable aroma will be virtually a thing of the past by late summer 1973. The company's kraft mill has provided an olfactory experience for the 150,000 residents and for great numbers of people who have driven through the city.

Robert F. Lynch, St. Regis' resident manager, said in March that the company was halfway through a $22-million project to eliminate 95 per cent of the mill's odor. The job should be finished well ahead of scheduled state air pollution control standards set for 1975, he said.

The pulp mill is not the only industrial smell producer here, but its acrid aroma has added the conspicuous touch to that special blend which, to the distress of local citizens, is what many persons think of when they think of Tacoma.

M. C. "Mel" Gaumer, administrative assistant to Mayor Gordon N. Johnston, says the mayor is "exceedingly excited about the prospect" of cutting down the industrial smell.

The city plans to transform several blocks of a downtown street into a pedestrian mall, he says, and although it still is "iffy," a developer has announced plans for a world trade center complex in Tacoma.

George Hoivik of the city planning department says the expansive tidelands industrial region where the pulp mill sits will be "more appealing to some types of industry" when the strong odor is gone.

Hoivik says the copper smelter located within the city limits is a worse culprit than the pulp mill.

The smelter's owner, American Smelting and Refining Co., has been given a timetable by the Puget Sound Air Pollution Control Agency to cut its sulphur dioxide emissions by 90 per cent—a timetable delayed by a number of variances.

Travelers on Interstate 5 generally don't notice the distant copper smelter. It's the pulp mill right under their noses, so to speak, which has their attention and which lingers in their memories. Wind currents flow from the mill and funnel the stench along the freeway corridor, Hoivik explains.

"It's been kind of a stigma," he says. "When you say where you're from, people mention the smell."

Various people have learned to live with the pulp odor in various ways. A Seattle resident recalls that when her family used to drive through a pulp mill town, her father would sing out as the car windows rolled up: "Just pretend it's roses."

LBJ IS A PUFFER

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mickey Landay was so upset when he saw former President Lyndon B. Johnson puffing a cigarette at the Cotton Bowl football game he wrote him a scolding letter.

Landay wrote that he did not think the sight of a former heart attack victim smoking on national television was a very good example for the millions of young people in the TV audience.

Weeks later, Landay received a card bearing a gold-embossed seal of the United States and the following reply:

"Thank you for being interested and kind. We appreciated your thoughtful message."

Citizens Fail

After a long fight by citizens groups to save the historic 111-year-old St. Clair County Courthouse in Belleville, Ill., a wrecking crew began tearing it down Thursday. A large crane with a wrecking ball smashes a huge hole in the side of the building in this photo. The site is being cleared for erection of a new courthouse. Irate citizens wanted to preserve the building as a historic landmark.

Sedalia, Mo.

THE BIGGEST SELLING CAR IN EUROPE IS NOW FOR SALE IN SEDALIA.

In Europe, where they've been buying small cars for three generations, they buy more Fiats than anything else.

For every Volkswagen sold in Italy, 6 Fiats are sold in Germany.

For every Renault sold in Italy, 2 Fiats are sold in France.

For every Volvo sold in Italy, 9 Fiats are sold in Sweden.

All this becomes more meaningful when you consider that, over there, they have fifty different kinds of cars to choose from.

And that their choice is based on sixty years of driving these various cars under conditions that run all the way from the sub-zero winters of Sweden to the Alpine roads of northern Italy to the traffic jams of Paris to the no speed limit driving of the German autobahn.

Now, if you've been trying to decide between the dozen or so small cars sold here in the States, stop in at our new showroom and look over our eight Fiat models.

It'll make your decision considerably easier.

Stohr Greets Bond

Peter H. "Pete" Stohr, right, who is seeking the office of state representative, was one of several Republican candidates on hand to greet State Auditor Christopher "Kit" Bond Thursday when he came here to address a rally. Bond, who is seeking the office of state governor, shook hands with those present, including Mayor Jerry Jones, John C. Ryan, Republican candidate for state senator, and Harry Walch, Republican candidate for county presiding judge.

(Democrat-Capital Photo)

Seeking Office

Bond 'Bondwagon' Stops in Sedalia

State Auditor Christopher "Kit" Bond, Republican candidate for Missouri governor, Thursday told The Democrat-Capital that one of his assets for the office he is seeking is his experience as auditor. "It's the best training ground in state government for the governor's office because we examine in detail every branch of government," he pointed out.

The 33-year-old state auditor came to Sedalia while on a six-day campaign tour of 23 Missouri cities. He addressed a gathering of about 150 persons on the Pettis County Courthouse lawn.

"I am running for governor now so that I can provide the kind of leadership needed to bring reform and renewed faith to Missouri government in the 1970s," Bond said.

If elected governor, Bond said, he would "create a government that puts people above politics."

He said at present Missouri's human and natural resources were not being utilized to the best advantage of all citizens. "The voices of taxpayers," Bond said, "are saying that state government simply is not working well enough." Bond promised to "end that tragic charade going on in Jefferson City."

Debt Payments May Reduce Prime Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Treasury, with plenty of money on hand, is paying off some debts rather than refinancing them.

The action should make loans easier to get but the advantage is not likely to reach the man in the street immediately.

That is the opinion of bankers here who have had experience with government financing. They expect the government may not only pay cash to holders of $1.23 billion in bonds due June 15 but may pay off another $3 billion due later in the summer.

The government action, so rare that Treasury men couldn't remember when so much was paid off before, will put more money into circulation. This will increase the money supply and give lenders more funds to put to work.

"It could affect the prime rate," said Franklin R. Saul, former assistant secretary of the Treasury. "Certainly it will defer the rise which everybody had been expecting in short-term rates later this summer. I don't think it will be any important stimulant to business."

But Saul, now with F.S. Smithers and Co., said the easier money would probably not work down to the mortgage and auto loan markets right away.

"It is not likely to have any impact on those rates," he explained, "because they lag as much as a whole cycle behind the short-term changes. If it did have an effect, it would not be before the election, anyhow."

Actually, he said, the Treasury action in pumping money into the economy now will only defer an expected rise in rates. Bankers had expected the Treasury to need $22 billion to $23 billion in refinancing this summer. Taking this much money out of the system would have pushed interest rates up because there would have been less money to lend.

But the overwithholding of the income tax has given the Treasury some $10 billion to $11 billion which had not been expected. This means the government can pay off some loans with its own money instead of borrowing more money to pay the old bonds. As a result, it is not taking money out of the system. Instead it is putting money in. Any rise in short-term rates will not be likely before autumn.

As to what will happen next spring, when all this overwithheld tax has to be paid back in income tax refunds, no expert wanted to predict.

EPA Adopts Policy On Pollution Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency has quietly adopted a policy requiring "best practicable" water pollution control by industries nationwide.

The new policy replaces EPA's previous reliance only on the "professional judgment" of its regional officers in writing industrial discharge limits.

Specific instructions already are being prepared by EPA to guide the regional administrators in applying the policy once current legal obstacles can be removed from the agency's water quality program.

The new policy has not been made public but was expressed in a letter from John R. Quarles Jr., EPA assistant administrator for enforcement, to the heads of state water-pollution control agencies.

The Associated Press has obtained a copy of this letter, dated last May 25, which says the policy anticipates congressional passage of legislation with a similar standard.

Efforts by EPA and the Corps of Engineers to control water pollution by issuing industrial discharge permits were halted by a court order last December but EPA officials hope an appeals court or Congress will remove the legal roadblock.

Urges Congress To Approve Arms Limitation Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon returned from his historic summit journey to Moscow Thursday night to urge a joint session of Congress to approve the arms limitation agreement he signed with Soviet leaders.

Speaking before a nationwide television and radio audience in the crowded House chamber, the President said: "I have not come here this evening to make new announcements in a dramatic setting. This summit has already made its news."

"It has barely begun, however, to make its mark on our world. I ask you to join me tonight—while events are fresh, while the iron is hot—in starting to consider how we can help to make that mark what we want it to be."

The President outlined the various agreements reached during his summit meeting in the Russian capital but said the most important of the accords "is the treaty and related executive and defensive strategic nuclear weapons in the arsenals of the United States and the USSR."

Nixon said these agreements provide a foundation for a new relationship between two powerful nations with a recent history of antagonism.

"Now it is up to all of us here in this chamber and to all of us across America—to join with other nations in building a new house upon that foundation—one that can be a home for the hopes of mankind and a shelter against the storms of conflict," the President stated.

"As a preliminary, therefore," the President went on, "to requesting your concurrence in some of the agreements we reached and your approval of funds to carry out others, and also as a keynote for the unity in which this government and this nation must go forward from here, I am rendering this immediate report to the Congress on the results of the Moscow summit."

Nixon spoke less than a half an hour after arriving on a 10-hour flight from Warsaw. After landing at Andrews Air Force Base, he flew by helicopter to the Capitol.

The President's 13-day trip, besides Russia, included Austria, Iran and Poland.

The President sought to head off any concern that the Strategic Arms Limitation agreements—SALT—had endangered American security as charged by some critics, such as Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

"I have studied the strategic balance in great detail with my senior advisers for more than three years," the President told an audience that broke into frequent applause during his presentation. He went on:

"I can assure the Congress and the American people tonight that the present and planned strategic forces of the United States are without question sufficient for the maintenance of our security and the protection of our vital interests."

"No power on earth is stronger than the United States of America today. None will be stronger than the United States of America in the near future."

In defending the agreements, Nixon said that the pre-eminent position of the United States "is the only national defense posture which can ever be acceptable to the United States."

"This is the posture I ask the Senate to protect by approving the arms limitation treaty. And this is the posture which, with the responsible cooperation of the Congress, I will take all necessary steps to maintain in our future defense programs."

In reviewing the other areas discussed during his stay in Moscow, the President said Vietnam "was one of the most extensively discussed subjects of our agenda."

However, he said to provide details of discussions concerning the war "would only jeopardize the search for peace."

He added, however, "I will simply say this: Each side obviously has its own point of view and its own approach to this very difficult issue."

"But at the same time, both the United States and the Soviet Union share an overriding desire to achieve a more stable peace in the world."

Concerning trade between the two nations, the President said negotiations are proceeding on schedule and that a comprehensive trade agreement between the world's most powerful capitalist nation and the strongest Communist country can be expected to be signed "later this year."

The President pointed with pride to the other agreements reached during his 13 days abroad, which included accords on environmental quality, medical science and health, technology and science, joint space ventures and a pact to reduce the

Suspect Another Attack, Prepare Israeli Airport

TEL AVIV (AP)—Scores of troops and ambulances converged on Israel's international airport Thursday night on suspicion that terrorists planned another sabotage attack to follow the Tuesday massacre that left 26 dead and about 70 wounded.

Lebanon braced for possible Israeli attacks in retaliation for the massacre. Witnesses said Israeli Skyhawk and Mirage jets invaded Lebanese air space for 15 minutes Thursday and unusual troop movements were seen in Israeli settlements along the border.

At Tel Aviv's Lod International Airport, soldiers surrounded the field and searched all passengers from at least six incoming flights from Europe, Asia and the United States.

All hospitals in the Tel Aviv area were put on special alert.

Some hospitals still were crowded with wounded from Tuesday's carnage.

Four hours after the alarm began no incidents had occurred, no weapons had been found and no arrests had been made.

Passengers were allowed to disembark from jetliners only a few at a time. Each group was searched and baggage was opened and inspected before travelers entered the terminal building where the slaughter occurred 48 hours before.

There was no official word on what caused the airport alert. Unofficial reports said the surviving member of the Japanese suicide squad that created Tuesday's havoc told Israeli interrogators Japanese fanatic groups in Europe were preparing another slaughter.

Censorship held up reports of the alarm for several hours.

Two of the terrorists died in the assault Tuesday. The death Thursday of a middle-aged Puerto Rican woman, Ornita Luba, increased the death toll to 26.

Lebanon's army has been placed on the alert in the expectation that Israelis will carry out some form of reprisal for allowing the guerrillas to maintain a headquarters in Beirut, the capital.

Speculation on where an Israeli attack might come dominated cafe conversation in Beirut.

Airports throughout Europe, tightened their security and some ordered passengers bound for the Middle East to submit to body searches.

Kozo Okamoto, 24, the surviving suicide squad member, told interrogators the gunmen took no money for the killings but did accept guns and plane tickets from Arab guerrillas, he said.

He said his "United Red Army" death team worked with the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine because the Japanese did not have money to stage a raid of their own, sources close to the interrogators said.

He did not say why he and his comrades were determined to wage a terrorist attack.

Reports of the interrogation emerged as all Israel was in a sullen, angry and vengeful mood against neighboring Lebanon and the Arab guerrillas.

But for the time being at least, the Israeli government appeared to be concentrating on diplomacy rather than retaliation.

Premier Golda Meir has warned that the Arabs would "bear the responsibility" for the airport massacre, and Israeli press reports said the government had asked the United States to "warn Lebanon for the last time."

Israeli forces have invaded the Arab nation along the frontier in the past to hit guerrillas there.

Israel's ambassadors in 17 countries having air links with Israel called on foreign ministries, asking those countries to condemn the airport massacre and strengthen their own air security.

In Jerusalem, Foreign Minister Abba Eban conferred with U.S. Ambassador Walworth Barbour to outline the need for "vigilance and caution" by air authorities, and the responsibility of governments not to permit terrorists to organize in their territory.

The message appeared to be meant for relay to Lebanon.

The International Air Transport Association in Geneva blamed governments for failing to live up to recent international treaties to protect the safety of passengers.

Attack Threatening Enemy Regiment

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese paratroopers moving behind tanks and American air power assaulted the foothills north of Hue Thursday, hoping to capture or destroy a threatening enemy regiment.

Two airborne task forces repeatedly sought cover from North Vietnamese artillery but did not stop their advance. Each was fighting company-size units by late afternoon, Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen reported.

The operation, perhaps 2,000 men in all, swept west of Highway 1 and south of the My Chanh River, 25 miles above Hue.

More than 30 U.S. B52 bombers had pummeled the area with heavy explosives beforehand.

U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers shot down two MIG21 interceptors Wednesday over North Vietnam 30 to 40 miles south of China, the U.S. Command announced. The dogfight was the closest one to the Chinese border in at least four years.

Other aircraft blasted fresh targets in the Hanoi-Haiphong area. Spokesmen said one Air Force F4 Phantom crashed in Thailand on its way back to base Thursday, but both crewmen ejected and were rescued.

The crash raised to 67 the number of U.S. planes lost to all causes in Indochina since the enemy offensive began March 30. Forty-five helicopters also have been lost.

A Hanoi broadcast said three U.S. planes were shot down Thursday in air action over the provinces of Lang Son, Vinh Phu and Yen Bai.

In Saigon, the U.S. Command announced the largest single troop cutback from South Vietnam since the offensive but none of the reductions was from combat units.

The command said 37 U.S. Army units would be withdrawn, cutting strength by 2,460 men and bringing it toward the level of 49,000 that President Nixon ordered reached by July 1.

Official U.S. figures as of last week listed 64,800 Americans in South Vietnam, not counting more than 80,000 others supporting the war effort from air and naval operations outside the country.

American military sources said it was possible that Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, would leave for reassignment within the month despite the offensive.

"All the signs are there," said one senior officer. "If the battlefield situation continues to stabilize, there is no real reason why Abrams couldn't leave."

Davis Defense Team Makes Final Plea

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Angela Davis' chief defense attorney asked the all-white jury on Thursday "to think: black, to be black," and in their deliberations share the fears that haunted her as a black, militant Communist.

Attorney Leo Branton pleaded for Miss Davis' acquittal on charges of murder, kidnap and conspiracy in connection with the 1970 invasion of the Marin County courthouse.

Branton said the prosecution was "trying to convict a woman on the weakest evidence ever presented in a court of law in a case that has attracted this much attention."

But the main thrust of his final argument was that Miss Davis, wanted in connection with the invasion, fled California because she feared political and racial persecution. Four persons, including a judge, died in the Aug. 7, 1970, violence, and guns owned by Miss Davis were found at the scene.

In his rebuttal argument, prosecutor Albert Harris Jr. asked jurors to convict Miss Davis, disputed sections of the defense's arguments, and suggested at least one defense witness had lied in providing the defendant with an alibi.

"Nothing that you do when you bring in a verdict," he told jurors, "will restore Judge Haley to life, to his robes and bench ... what you can do is see that justice is done in this case."

Superior Court Judge Arnason dismissed jurors until Friday morning when he is scheduled to instruct them in law and send them out to start deliberations.

Bills Burn Sedalian; Burns Car

A Sedalia man who told the Pettis County Sheriff's office he was tired of having to pay for repairs on his car, reportedly set fire to his 1966 Chevrolet at 5 p.m. Wednesday at the old ford on Flat Creek on South Grand, about two miles south of Sedalia.

Charlie Lemmons, 610 South Kentucky, remained in the Pettis County jail Wednesday night while officials conducted an investigation of possible arson. Lemmons was released Thursday and no charges were filed.

According to a report received by sheriff's officials, Lemmons apparently set fire to his car and then started walking from the scene. He was picked up by the driver of a green Comet.

Sheriff's deputies, acting on a telephoned tip, took the 44-year-old Lemmons into custody while enroute to the fire scene.

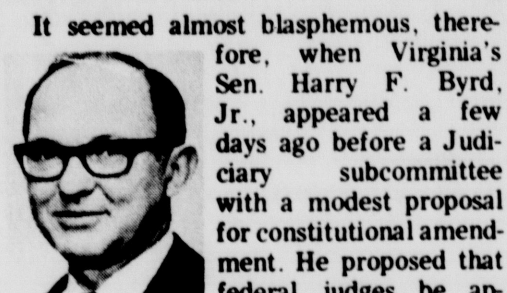

The interior of the car was gutted by the fire. The Pettis County Fire Department extinguished the blaze, which was confined to the passenger compartment.

Flag Day commemorates adoption by the Continental Congress of a resolution making the Stars and Stripes the U.S. flag in 1777. The first nationally observed Flag Day was on the 100th anniversary when the government requested that the flag be flown from public buildings to commemorate its adoption. The World Almanac says.

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — If there is one caluse in the U.S. Constitution that is singularly untouchable, it is the clause in Article III which says that federal judges "shall hold their offices during good behavior." This is the life tenure provision. Traditionally it has been given the reverence accorded a sacred cow.

Kilpatrick

It seemed almost blasphemous, therefore, when Virginia's Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Jr., appeared a few days ago before a Judiciary subcommittee with a modest proposal for constitutional amendment. He proposed that federal judges be appointed henceforth for terms of eight years only, subject to reconfirmation by the Senate. Well! A couple of agitated law professors followed the senator to the stand, protesting, objecting, and charging that the Virginian was trying to undermine the very pillars of judicial independence. You might have supposed that Byrd had proposed to abolish the writ of habeas corpus.

Yet Byrd is on the right track. His resolution merits serious consideration by those persons who give thought to the very essence of government. That essence is power.

The senator's premises are sound. He argues that for a variety of reasons, federal judges have assumed great power in our public life; that our fundamental law now provides no effective restraint against the abuse of that power; and that a system which fails to provide such restraint is defective and should be repaired.

Byrd also argues persuasively that in a democratic republic, it simply is wrong in principle for any official to hold his office for life. Moreover, he asks, if life tenure for judges is so wonderful, why have 47 of the 50 states rejected life tenure in setting up courts of their own?

Few persons would challenge Byrd's observation on the steady growth in the power of our federal judges. The process began in the days of John Marshall — Thomas Jefferson bitterly denounced the high court for its "insidious mining and sapping of the Constitution" — and it continues to this day with accelerating speed. In the hands of our judges, the Fourteenth Amendment has become a whole new Constitution in itself; by disdaining the intention of its framers, today's appellate judges give the Fourteenth whatever meaning they please. Our judges have become our unaccountable masters; and they serve for life.

No such prospect was foreseen when the Republic was formed. Hamilton supposed that the judiciary always would be the weakest of the three branches. The doctrine of "separation of powers" was universally admired. How could this weak and impotent branch be protected from possible invasion by the executive and legislative branches? Life tenure was an answer. And the few prophets who foresaw the dangers of judicial usurpation — Patrick Henry was their ablest spokesman — were put down as the paranoids of their time.

Henry was right; and Jefferson also was right in denouncing the device of impeachment as a scarecrow. Except through the tedious, costly, and often ineffective avenues of appeal, our lower federal judges are immune even to rebuke. Such a judge may be incompetent or tyrannical; in the constitutional sense, this is not "ungood" behavior. At the level of the Supreme Court, justices are subject to no built-in restraints whatever.

Byrd's plan is not radical. Except for Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Hampshire, every state in the Union adheres to a system of fixed terms subject to reconfirmation. The concept of fixed terms for state judges has been urged by the American Judicature Society since its founding in 1913. The plan won endorsement from the American Bar Association in 1937. The system has worked admirably: It has added to the desirable principle of judicial independence the equally desirable principle of public accountability. This is what Byrd has in mind for federal judges of the future. His idea merits respect, and it deserves far more attention than it has received so far.

The Last Bomb Is Dropped

WASHINGTON — It was hard to believe, but in October, 1972, the United States ran out of bombs.

Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird broke the bad news to President Nixon. "I'm sorry, Mr. President, but we have no bombs left to drop on Vietnam. We're completely out."

"But that's impossible," the President said. "I was assured we had enough bombs stockpiled for five years."

"Under ordinary conditions we would have, but we've been dropping them at such an accelerated rate that we ran out last Friday. There's isn't one bomb left in the United States or at any of its overseas bases."

"Can't we borrow some bombs from our allies?"

"We've already borrowed every bomb we could from Britain, France, Belgium, West Germany, Spain and Greece. We owe them 2.42 billion bombs, and they say they aren't going to lend us any more until we pay the interest on the ones we have already. At 6 per cent that comes to an awful lot of bombs."

"But, Melvin, we've got to have bombs or our strategy of bringing Hanoi to her knees will fail. Surely a great industrial giant like the United States can rise to the challenge."

"We've tried, sir, but production just can't keep up with demand. Every time a bomb comes off the assembly line, it's immediately attached to a bomb rack and dropped on Vietnam. To make matters worse, the Air Force, Navy and Marines are fighting over every bomb that is made. They had a dogfight over the Lockheed plant in San Diego the other morning and the Navy shot down an Air Force B-52 because it claimed the Air Force has stolen their bomb."

"This is serious, Melvin. If we slow down the tempo of the bombing, the North Vietnamese will interpret it as a sign of weakness. Have you checked any of the underdeveloped countries? Surely they must have some we can buy."

"We've looked into it, Mr. President, but the underdeveloped countries are refusing to sell their bombs. They've decided bombs are more valuable than gold, and because of the shortage they are now using them as currency. The latest rate of exchange is 100 trucks for one bomb."

"How did we get into such a position?" the President asked in an exasperated voice.

"I guess it was our fault, Mr. President. When we said we would bomb only military targets in Vietnam we had a sufficient supply of bombs. But when you gave the order to bomb anything they wanted to, the Air Force and Navy went ape."

"Also, the South Vietnamese army didn't help much. Every time they saw a water buffalo in a rice paddy, they called for an air strike. One sniper in a tree cost us 200,000 tons of bombs. We dropped more bombs on Highway One last week than we dropped in all of World War II."

"I'm going to issue an executive order declaring that every dairy in the United States must start manufacturing bombs."

"Every dairy?" the secretary of defense said.

"That's correct. It's obvious my butter-and-bomb policy isn't working. So until we have enough bombs to halt Communist aggression, no one in this country gets any butter."

"That's a drastic measure in an election year, Mr. President."

"It has to be done, Melvin. I'm not going to be the first President of the United States to go down in history as the one who ran out of bombs."

Arms Treaty Makes A Vital Beginning

The nuclear arms agreement President Nixon signed in Russia is not an end to the arms race, but it is a beginning.

Cries of a "sellout" to the contrary, what the President did in Moscow was to take the first, small step toward setting a limit on the numbers of nuclear weapons allowed the U.S. and the Soviet Union. After more than a quarter of a century of arms competition between the two superpowers, the treaty is a diplomatic breakthrough of the greatest importance.

Critics of the agreement have pointed out that the pact gives the Soviet Union an advantage in numbers of missiles. This is true, but due to the U.S. lead in development of the multiple warhead, we will still enjoy a large lead in the numbers of deliverable payloads.

The complexities connected with weapons of nuclear war—involving such considerations as megatonage, accuracy, launching platform, and range, make absolute parity in weapons virtually impossible to achieve. Those who seize upon the Soviet advantage in numbers of missiles as proof of another "Munich" are not telling the entire story.

Richard Nixon is no amateur when it comes to negotiating with the Russians, and protecting U.S. security. Few Americans are prepared to believe that he, or the Senate which must ratify part of the treaty, will gamble with the survivability of the nation.

Of course in this area, interest—and no doubt some disappointment—has focused on the ABM treaty, which spells the end of plans for a Safeguard complex in Pettis County. The $211 million that would have been spent on Safeguard in this area is no longer budgeted by the Department of Defense.

But over the long run it will all be worth it if brakes can be put on the financially ruinous arms race. It is a start toward that hoped for day when the fear of nuclear war can be lifted from all mankind.

Tax Money Pays Political Cronies

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., the esteemed House Foreign Relations chairman and a power in the backrooms of Washington, has two Pennsylvania state employees on his House payroll to do political chores for him.

Even as he skillfully steers foreign aid to nations abroad, Morgan directs other U.S. Treasury checks to two political errand boys at home, John "Jake" Morgan and Thomas H. Boyd. Both men also draw full-time salaries from the state of Pennsylvania.

In other words, the taxpayers are helping to pay Morgan's campaign costs which his opponents must do without federal aid.

The 50-year-old "Jake" Morgan, no relation to the congressman, draws $6,717 from the U.S. Treasury and another $9,454 from Pennsylvania.

He is listed as a "clerk" for the House of Representatives and construction inspector for the Pennsylvania General State Authority. We reached him at a construction site and questioned him about his "clerical" duties.

"I'm tired of all you g— d— newspapers bothering people!" he roared. "Why don't you get a real job instead of sitting around on your —!" Then he slammed down the telephone.

Morgan's other political aide, 66-year-old Thomas Boyd, collects $9,500 a year from Pennsylvania as a field auditor and only $2,860 from the House of Representatives.

"Sometimes," he acknowledged, "we have his office all filled up with political clientele and patients and people wanting help when he gets in on the weekend."

Morgan also talked amiably to my associate, Les Whitten, about his two political henchmen.

"They're part of the political organization," Morgan explained.

"Certainly they take part in political activities, but they have their field work — Veterans Administration, Social Security, black lung, and so on. I couldn't see how there would be any conflicts of interest."

From time to time, we have reported on the fate of Truong Dinh Dzu, who was sentenced to five years of hard labor in South Vietnam after giving President Thieu a scare in the 1967 elections.

Dzu called for establishing a coalition government and negotiating an end to the war. He came in a strong second in the presidential election.

Alarmed, President Thieu sent Dzu to jail in 1968 on trumped-up charges. This would be equivalent to imprisoning Hubert Humphrey after he lost to Richard Nixon in 1968.

Last year, we reported that Dzu had been refused medical treatment in prison for a heart ailment. The U.S. mission made inquiries and was permitted to visit him.

As a result, the Saigon government sent Dzu to a hospital for a complete medical examination and notified the U.S. mission that Dzu would be released a year early.

This report was passed on to the White House which informed inquirers "that Mr. Dzu recently received a one-year reduction in sentence and is to be released on May 1, 1972."

May 1 has now come and gone. But Truong Dinh Dzu is still in prison.

Who's Kidding — Adm. Isaac Kidd, the gung-ho new Navy material commander, has distributed among his subordinates 2,500 picture cubes with his picture on three sides. For awhile, he also plastered the walls with enormous red posters featuring his heroic countenance and the legend: "What have you done for the fleet today?" For sailors at sea beyond sight of his posters, the admiral dispatched cassette tapes bearing patriotic messages in the master's own voice. All this self-promotion, of course, was financed by the taxpayers.

Kleindienst's Law Firm — Four years ago, the Phoenix law firm of Shimmel, Hill, Kleindienst and Bishop had no Washington office. But that was before Richard Kleindienst left the firm to become deputy attorney general. Suddenly, the firm was in great demand in Washington. It now has a full-time staff of five attorneys to handle its flourishing practice in the capital.

Gas Increases — We have written how Federal Power Commission Chairman John Nassikas, the natural gas lobby's best friend in Washington, has pushed through gas rate increases on grounds that this will encourage exploration for more gas. Yet, the Interior Department's Bureau of Land Management, in a draft environmental statement, seems to side with the housewives of America against the pronouncements of Nassikas and his industry cronies. "There yet is no positive indication," says the Interior Department office, "that such price increases have resulted in additional exploration and production."

Secret Publicity — Congress passed a law in 1913 which states: "No money appropriated by an Act shall be used for the compensations of any publicity expert unless specifically appropriated for that purpose." Yet even some of the government press agents, who are trying to sell the public on law and order, apparently, are violating this law. The FBI, for example, has a staff of special agents who answer press questions. They have speech writers and copywriters and scriptwriters. They help prepare the FBI television series, and they conduct public tours. Yet the FBI solemnly denies that it employs any publicity men.

MacDuff, the best player in Scotland, was watching both the South and East hands. He nodded happily when Prince Donalbain jumped to six hearts but shook his head violently when Donalbain ruffed the second spade with the three of trumps.

"Ye may be king of Scotland some day but ye'll never be a bridge player. I guess it's the Scotch blood that wouldn't let ye play the nine."

We'll leave you to work out why that three-spot play doomed the slam to defeat. It's tough enough to bring it in after the correct play of the nine. A trump coup is required.

South leads the deuce of clubs to dummy's nine; plays the eight of hearts and lets it ride. He continues with the six to his 10 and overtakes the king of clubs with dummy's ace.

Then he leads a third club and proceeds to ruff it. This brings him down to the same number of trumps as East.

Now he cashes one of his high diamonds; leads a second diamond to dummy's king and starts on clubs once more.

East can trump whenever he feels like it but South will overtrump and make the slam.

So as to stop a lot of mail we must report that if the three witches had been advising West they would have told him to lead anything but a spade at trick two and beat the hand against any line of play.

FUNNY BUSINESS

By Roger Bollen

DEATH NOTICES

Clark Smith

BOISE, Idaho — Clark Smith, 72, formerly of Kansas City, died here Monday.

He was born June 24, 1899, the son of John C. and Kathern Platt Smith. He married Lavada Wilson, who survives, of the home.

Also surviving are five sons, a daughter; and three sisters, Mary Upton, Louisville, Ky.; Lucille Todd, Chandler, Ariz.; and Nadine Wadleigh, 2215 South Grand, Sedalia.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at Summers Chapel.

Burial was in Dry Creek Cemetery.

Mrs. Clara S. Owen

Funeral services for Mrs. Clara S. Owen, 98, 1705 West 16th, who died at 3:30 a.m. Wednesday at the Buena Vista Nursing Home, will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at the McLaughlin Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Robert Magee officiating.

Burial will be in the Memorial Park Cemetery.

The family will receive friends from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday at the funeral chapel.

Deadline on City Stickers Friday

Mrs. Opal Hugelman, city collector, said Thursday morning 4,000 city car stickers have yet to be sold before Friday's deadline. Approximately 6,000 stickers had been sold by Thursday, she said.

Mrs. Hugelman said there would be no increase in the cost of a sticker if purchased after the deadline but warned potential late-buyers that police will issue a summons to car owners if they have not purchased stickers before the deadline. Failure to purchase or display the stickers may result in police court fines of up to $10 upon conviction. The deadline is Friday.

Recognize Treaty By Setting Clock Back Two Minutes

CHICAGO (AP)—The "doomsday clock" on the cover of the Bulletin of Atomic Scientists has been set back by two minutes in recognition of the new strategic arms limitation treaty—SALT—with the Soviet Union.

The clock is purely symbolic: the 24 hours represents the history of mankind, the minute hand the nuclear age running back to World War II. It is intended, a spokesman said, "to reflect the basic changes in the level of continuous danger in which mankind lives in a nuclear age."

Since April 1969, after the nuclear nonproliferation treaty, the clock had stood at 10 minutes to midnight.

Prof. Bernard T. Feld of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, a member of the Bulletin's board of directors, said by the SALT treaty "we have succeeded in avoiding a costly and futile race in the development of antiballistic missiles and have halted the upward spiral of long-range nuclear-tipped missiles. That warrants setting back the clock."

Its clock first appeared in June 1947 showing seven minutes to midnight, when only the United States had the atomic bomb. It was set ahead to 11:57 in October 1949 when the Soviet union achieved nuclear status, and to 11:58 in September 1953 when both the United States and the Soviet Union developed the hydrogen bomb.

Thefts, Vandalism Reported To Police

Three thefts and an incident of vandalism were reported to police Thursday.

Vernon Ditton, of the City Street and Sanitation Department, told police someone had broken a window pane on the northeast corner of the City Barn, 901 East Third, to gain entry Wednesday night.

Upon investigation police found three nickel candy dispensers inside the building have been broken into and an undetermined amount of change taken. The report indicated other vending machines in the building were not disturbed.

According to police, Jack Alfrey, 105 Helen Circle, reported a grease gun, valued at $12, and a box of tools, valued at $65, were taken from his pickup truck while it was parked at the Missouri State Fairgrounds sometime after 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Forrest Stark, 1604 East 12th, reported the spare tire, valued at $30, was taken from her husband's pickup truck over the weekend while it was parked at the above address.

Mrs. Tom Howerton, 708 East 15th, reported someone used a sharp object to damage a child's play pen at the above address.

McGovern Predicts Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. George McGovern predicted for the first time Thursday that he would win the Democratic presidential nomination on the first ballot at the national convention.

As he and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey kept up their day and night campaigning for Tuesday's Democratic presidential primary election in California, McGovern made a strong expression of confidence in his chances of steamrolling to victory at the Miami Beach convention in July.

But he said he wouldn't ask Humphrey or his other opponents to withdraw before the convention in the name of party unity.

Humphrey once again criticized McGovern's tax and welfare proposals. The South Dakota senator's plan to close tax loopholes, Humphrey said, would mean that people earning $8,000 to $20,000 a year "are just going to get socked right on their proverbial jaw."

His own tax proposals, Humphrey said, would "slam the door shut on tax loopholes for the super-rich and the giant corporations," raising $16 billion that could be used to cut property taxes.

Both McGovern and Humphrey began the day in Los Angeles, each taping television interviews and making public appearances. But by afternoon, as they have previously, the candidates were off to other areas of the state—McGovern to Oakland, San Jose and San Francisco in the Bay area and Humphrey to Bakersfield and later San Francisco.

By television and airplane, they are keeping their faces daily before voters in the state's large population centers.

Taping a television interview in Los Angeles in the morning, McGovern was asked how his followers would feel if he started making deals with Gov. George Wallace, Chicago Mayor Richard Daley or others at the convention.

"I'm not going to make any deals with Gov. Wallace or Mayor Daley or with anyone else," McGovern replied. "If I do that, I don't deserve the nomination."

"... I think we're going to win the nomination on the first ballot ... I don't want to be president if I have to make deals that compromise my essential convictions. This country can always get a new president, but I can't get a new conscience."

Staff aides said later it was the first time McGovern had predicted victory on the first ballot.

Humphrey, in addition to criticizing McGovern's tax revision proposals, said McGovern's program to cut defense spending would "not only cut defenses but cut employment."

Both senators spoke by telephone to the Houston convention of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees and accused President Nixon of favoring big business at the expense of workers and ignoring the nation's critical domestic needs.

They asked the some 1,500 convention delegates to help turn Nixon out of office.

The wife of Gov. Wallace flew into Los Angeles Wednesday night to tape a Merv Griffin television show and said that despite the governor's partial paralysis, she wants him to pursue his political goals.

"I think that the only thing that would ever really make him want to try to walk again is his career and his politics," Cornelia Wallace said.

Wallace is a write-in candidate in the Democratic primary here.

Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., said in Los Angeles Thursday that he expects a deadlock at the national convention and that he would be available as a compromise choice.

Another Democratic candidate, Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, told a news conference that neither McGovern nor Humphrey discussed such important issues as aerospace employment, busing and the mining of Haiphong harbor, in the first two of their three nationally televised debates.

"They are out of step as far as California is concerned," he said. "They evade issues instead of debating them."

Man Is Freed On Bond in Check Case

Jerry Dillon, Houstonia, is free on a $1,000 bond following his arraignment in Magistrate Court Thursday morning on a charge of issuing a no funds check at the Horseshoe Bar recently, according to a spokesman for the Pettis County Sheriff's department.

Dillon's bond is returnable June 8, when he will have his preliminary hearing, it was reported. The amount of the check was not determined.

It was reported that Dillon was taken into custody by the Houstonia city marshal Wednesday afternoon on a warrant issued by the county sheriff's department. He was brought to Sedalia later the same day.

Northside Citizens Meeting Tonight

The Northside Citizens Association will meet at 8 p.m. Friday at the Quinn Chapel AME Church, 512 West Johnson.

The Rev. T. E. Davis will preside over the meeting.

Area Hospitals

Mrs. T. L. (Ruth) Greening, Exeter, Calif., formerly of Sedalia, was released recently from the Memorial Hospital there.

Address Sedalia Physicians

In an effort to bridge the communication gap between the University of Missouri Medical Center at Columbia and medical practitioners in small communities in the state, a team of three medical professors from the Center spoke to local doctors at a meeting Wednesday evening in Sedalia.

The meeting, attended by about 65 physicians and their wives from Pettis, Benton, Saline, Morgan and Lafayette Counties, was held at the Walnut Hills Country Club.

The visiting team consisted of Dr. Paul Young, director for continuing medical education; Dr. Gordon Sharp, chief rheumatologist, and Dr. Richard Martin, chief cardiologist.

Dr. Young pointed out that the Medical Center gets only a 50 per cent grant from the state compared to 80 per cent eight years ago. The increasing role of the center is evident in the fact that it now trains nearly 800 students in the fields of medicine, nursing and allied subjects, he said.

Dr. Sharp said the arthritic center at the University of Missouri, which is about 2½ years old, is devoted to education, research and patient care. He said the center is on the threshold of discovering new drugs for arthritic patients.

Dr. Martin emphasized the steps the medical center was taking in fostering a closer relation between physicians and their patients. A device called the "centrex" system will be installed at the center in the next few days to enable a person to reach his doctor at the center through direct dialing without having to go through a switchboard operator and a secretary.

The doctors discussed the population-physician ratio in the state. Dr. J. E. Block, president of the Sedalia Medical Society, said while the national ratio of physicians to 100,000 persons was 179, the wide disparity in Missouri communities is evident from Jackson County's 190 physicians per 100,000 compared to 50 physicians in smaller communities. Sedalia's estimated ratio is 130, he pointed out.

Dr. Block introduced the speakers.

Politics Wallace Medicine

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The wife of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace says politics is the only thing that would make her husband try to walk again and adds: "If I have to push a wheelchair in the White House, I will do it."

A bullet lodged in Wallace's spinal column also will be left there indefinitely unless it causes infection, Cornelia Wallace said Wednesday night at a taping of the Merv Griffin television show.

Mrs. Wallace also said that the governor, who was shot May 15 at a Maryland shopping center, moved his foot for the first time Tuesday night while his children visited.

"But I don't know exactly what it means, because a neurosurgeon was not there," she said.

Earlier, Wallace's toes had wiggled when his feet were rubbed or tickled. He is hospitalized at Holy Cross Hospital in Silver Spring, Md.

Mrs. Wallace's appearance on the show will be broadcast Monday, the day before the California Democratic primary in which Wallace is a write-in candidate.

Before she learned of the possibility her husband might not walk again, Mrs. Wallace said she first felt "relieved to think that we could live a normal life and be home and do simple things like simple people do ..." because she felt he would not immediately try to resume his political career.

But now, she said, she wants her husband to pursue his political goals. "I think that the only thing that would ever really make him want to try to walk again is his career and his politics," she explained.

She was asked whether she saw Arthur Bremer, the accused assailant, during the shooting. "No, I didn't see anything," she replied. "I didn't see any of him. I just heard the shots, because I was walking away, actually walking to get a lady ... so that she could shake hands with my husband."

"The thing that would have killed him was the stomach injury," she said of Wallace's wounds.

"The bullet missed his large aorta by a hair. It missed his lung, missed his liver, missed every vital organ and just by a fraction. So we just are thankful that he is alive."

Water System Is Repaired at Home

Operations at Buena Vista Home are back to normal and, after more than a week of routine operation, Miss Mary Jacks, bookkeeper for the home, said "it's nice to have all the running water you can use again."

On May 20 the deep well pump at the nursing home malfunctioned, forcing emergency delivery of water to the home's 43 residents until a temporary pump was installed. Several area residents volunteered their time and efforts in providing the needed water.

However, by May 23 the part needed to repair the pump had been obtained from Oklahoma and since then operations have been back on a normal basis, Miss Jacks said.

Man Found Innocent Of Charges

Jackie Cooper, 27, Sedalia, was found innocent by reason of mental disability on charges of molesting a minor, in Pettis County Circuit Court Wednesday. Circuit Judge Frank Meyer, however, ordered Cooper to undergo treatment at the State Hospital in Fulton.

Cooper was arrested May 6, 1971, on charges of molesting a minor. He underwent a mental examination in February at the state hospital. Prosecuting Attorney Adam Fischer, acting on recommendations from the findings of the mental examination, recommended Cooper be confined for further treatment at the hospital.

In another case, Jackie Louis Holtcamp, 18, 622 East 10th, was ordered by Circuit Judge Frank Myer, Wednesday, to undergo a mental examination at the state hospital in Fulton to determine his competency to stand trial. He is charged with second degree robbery.

Holtcamp was arrested by police April 18, in connection with a break-in of two soft drink machines at Smith-Cotton High School. About $10 or $15 in change was taken from two machines.

Speedy Justice Planned

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Anticipating possible rioting and hundreds of arrests during the Democratic and Republican conventions, Dade County judges and lawyers are gearing themselves to provide around-the-clock courts and speedy justice for those arrested.

"We've seen justice decrease in other areas during civil disorders," said Circuit Court Judge Thomas Lee. "That will not happen here."

Hundreds of thousands of nondelegates are expected for the Democratic National Convention July 10 and the Republicans gathering beginning Aug. 21.

Lee said Thursday that he and other members of the Florida Bar had drawn up a master plan to deal with administration of justice on a 24-hour basis.

The judge said the format was designed "not as a warning" to people but to "reassure that plans have been made to protect the citizens and the rights of those charged with crimes."

Goals of the plan, Lee said, are:

—Arrest and effective prosecution of those who riot and engage in related crimes.

—Prompt arraignment and judicial hearings for arrested persons.

Hands Down Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Congressional Black Caucus Thursday presented the Democratic party with a "black bill of rights" and said unless it is accepted black voters will desert the Democrats this fall.

The "non-negotiable demands" drawn up by the 13-member caucus include full employment, a guaranteed annual income, national health insurance, an immediate end to the Vietnam war, and appointment of Negroes to top government jobs and federal judgeships.

Caucus chairman Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, said the program will be submitted to the Democratic party platform committee, and, if rejected there, taken to the convention floor in Miami.

"Unless there is a proper response," said Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr., D-Mich., a caucus member, "the convention will just be an academic exercise."

Stokes and the other caucus members who participated in a news conference at which the black bill of rights was announced, said the Democrats cannot defeat President Nixon in November without black support.
